U. S. Alone Tests A-Bomb On 96-Ship Fleet in May

By JOSEPH A. BORS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25 (INS)—Congress was told the destructive force of the atomic bomb would be tested against sea power in May in the Pacific by America alone, using 96 target vessels, including 35 warships. Rear Adm. W. H. P. Blandy informed the Senate atomic energy committee a joint U. S. Army-Navy air-sea task force manned by 20,000 men will conduct the experiment early in May in the Marshall Islands.

Observers in the initial history-making trial will be limited to American military and naval personnel, U. S. press, radio and scientific representatives and members of Congress. Blandy said:

"This undertaking is not a combined or international operation, but rather a scientific experiment by the United States government alone."

Blandy said the question of inviting representatives of foreign nations and foreign news services was under discussion by the joint chiefs of staff and the Secretaries of State, War and Navy.

The first experiment will be carried out by Joint Task Force One under Blandy's over-all command in Bikini Atoll, 170 miles east of Eniwetok.

One German and two Japanese warships will help to comprise the "guinea pig" fleet. A second test is scheduled for July and another in 1947.

Blandy is the Navy's outstanding weapons expert. He was chief of ordnance early in the war and supervised production of many secret weapons used against the Axis.

Blandy told the Senate atomic energy committee today chain action of the bombs would cause 100-foot waves.

He said in the first test Army Air Force planes would drop a bomb similar in destructive power to that dropped on Nagasaki timed to explode several hundred feet above the target vessels.

In the second test the bomb will be exploded on the surface amid the doomed target fleet. Blandy explained:

"Scientists tell us that the bomb will cause more damage when exploded on the surface."

Blandy said the matter of using goats, guinea pigs and possibly other animals aboard the target vessels to determine whether any form of life will be left after the bombs explode is under consideration.

He added, however, that experts expect to obtain all necessary data from instruments on the target vessels.

In addition to the 96 target ships, 50 other vessels will be used to transport personnel, equipment and supplies. Target ships will be unmanned and will be anchored or beached during the first test.

Scheduled for possible destruction in the tests are the old battleships Arkansas, New York, Nevada and Pennsylvania; the carriers Saratoga and Independence and the cruisers Pensacola and Salt Lake City.

Enemy vessels to be used are the 10,000-ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen, at present in Boston; the 32,000-ton Jap battleship Nagato and the 6000-ton Jap cruiser Sakawa.

Sixteen American destroyers were listed for possible obliteration. They were:

Maryant, Trippe, Stack, Rhind, Bagley, Helm, Ralph Talbot, Mugford, Lamson, Flusser, Conyngham, Smith, Anderson, Mustin, Wainwright, Hughes.

U. S. submarines on the test list were the Skipjack, Tuna, Parche, Dentuda and Searaven.

The remainder of the fleet of 96 will be made up of 19 obsolete naval transports and landing craft.

Blandy told the committee "adequate measures" would be taken to insure the safety of the participants, observers, inhabitants

Nazi Warship A-Bomb Target

The former Nazi heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen, which will be sent to the Pacific to join an international fleet for the first historic tests of atomic bombs versus warships, is anchored in the South Boston Navy yard annex today.

The Prinz Eugen reached Boston yesterday after a trip from Portsmouth, Eng., and no announcement was made of the length of its stay. Aboard were 27 German naval officers and 574 men, with eight U. S. naval officers and 85 enlisted men supervising.

The warship was assigned to Pier 6. Capt. Arthur H. Graubert, USN, is in command with the German crew directed largely by their former skipper, German Capt. J. A. Reinicke.

Capt. Graubert said the German crew men were not prisoners but "detained enemy personnel" and would be allowed restricted liberty in Boston.

Elevator Worker Crushed to Death

Crushed between a moving elevator and the shaft wall in the New England Mutual Bldg., Boylston st., George C. Finn, 52, Oak ter., Everett, an elevator mechanic, was killed today.

Finn was in the shaft repairing an elevator near the first floor. A car in the basement was started up by a building employe who did not know Finn was working above.

Firemen worked for more than an hour to extricate the body.

Truman Scores Power Fight of Labor, Bosses

By Associated Press

President Truman today deplored current labor disputes as a struggle between workers and their bosses for power and called anew for settlement of the steel strike in the public interest. The Chief Executive told his news conference labor and management already have too much power and it's time for the government to exercise the people's authority.

Asked about the proposal made in a radio address by Benjamin Fairless, president of U. S. Steel, that Mr. Truman meet management leaders to establish a national wage policy, the President said he always was willing to meet business leaders.

But he aded, he doesn't make appointments through the radio or newspapers. He said the best thing Fairless could do is to send word he has accepted the President's proposal for an 18½-cent hourly wage increase for steelworkers.

Mr. Truman said, however, he didn't think it was practical to seize the steel industry now, though he didn't bar that possibility in the future.

Mr. Truman also disclosed government operation of a government-built steel plant in Utah is under consideration.

The President said meat workers would return at their old wages when the government seizes the meat packing industry Saturday.

Edgar L. Warren, chief of the federal conciliation service, told reporters in Washington Tuesday he had been assured by T. J. Lloyd, an official of the AFL Meat Cutters and Butchers Union, AFL strikers would return for the government.

However, the union telegraphed all its locals today, within an hour after the President's statement, to "stand by for instructions."

The President also said the steel workers would return at their old wages if the steel industry eventually is seized.

Brightest development on the nation's labor front was the calling off last night of a scheduled strike by 1500 trainmen on three shuttle railroads, a vital link in handling freight for 21 converging major railroads in Chicago.

In Detroit, CIO United Auto Workers Union planned to resume wage negotiations with Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. In the General Motors strike, now in its ninth week with 175,000 idle, the company and union made no move to resume talks on the union's demands for a 30 per cent wage increase.

7 Hub Meat Plants Ready for Walkout

While 1000 CIO Packing House Workers prepared to strike at midnight in seven Boston and Somerville plants making sausages and other processed meats, a local leader of the union was waiting word in Chicago on whether 2000 members participating locally in the nation-wide meat strike will go back to work when the government takes over plants Saturday.

Negotiations on the union's demands for a raise for packing house workers in seven independent plants were still in progress today. This strike would mark spread of unrest from plants operated by the country's "big four" concerns to smaller independents.

Another local strike seemed likely, affecting 28 Greater Boston cleansing plants. Nearly 1000 workers left their jobs early to vote for a strike at a Faneuil Hall meeting. No date has been set as yet by the union.

A strike notice involving the Boston Edison Co., dated Jan. 16 but facing a 30-day cooling-off period, was filed by an official of the Utility Workers Union, CIO. The union said the move was taken to gain recognition as bargaining agency for some 1800 workers and as "a protest against unfair labor practices."

Representatives of the Truck Drivers' Union and the Association of Truck Owners conferred with Gen. Charles H. Cole and the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration today in an effort to avert a strike scheduled for a week from tomorrow.

Union spokesmen said they were no nearer solution than they had been in the past two months. The union seeks a cost-of-living increase and establishment of a five-day instead of a six-day week to provide jobs for its 1100 members returning from the armed services.

In Springfield striking packing house workers pulled 11 refrigeration men out of the Handy Co. plant, threatening 1,800,000 pounds of meat stored there with spoilage, after company officials had crashed the picket lines.

A group of nine Boston Protestant ministers led by Rev. Stephen H. Fritschman, editor of the Christian Register, lent the Electrical Workers picketing the General Electric plant in East Boston their moral support in the picket line.

A request of the General Electric Co. that employes in a supervisory capacity be permitted to pass through picket lines was refused by the union at a special meeting last night.

The EWU was attempting to organize workers at the Raytheon plant in Newton in a fight for negotiating rights with the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Enoch Arden Vet Has Dual Wife Puzzled

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., Jan. 24 (INS)—The dreams which used to haunt Linda O'Signac but faded with time, again were vivid today.

She said:

"I hope he walks in the door. I used to dream of such a thing." Mrs. Langston-O'Signac, a bride of 19 days, spoke of her first husband, who reportedly spent last week-end with friends in his home town of Newark, Ark., although an official Navy report stated he was killed in action on Iwo Jima last March 7.

FREED—A divorce has been granted Mrs. Russell Burrage, Jr., wife of a North Shore socialite, in Salem Court after she had testified to cruel treatment. Mrs. Burrage was given custody of their 3-year-old daughter.

The "phantom" is or was PFC William Langston, 28.

Friends in Newark positively identified the man who visited there last Sunday and Monday as "Bill." His left foot was amputated and he walked with the aid of crutches, and both hands had been mutilated, by the Japs, he said.

He reportedly told his friends he had only been in the United States 10 days, and had not been able to get his discharge because his only service paper was his "death certificate."

Friends who knew Langston as a young man in Newark, positively identified the marine. A C. Crownover, a close friend of Langston, and the marine's host, declared there could be no mistake. Crownover said he asked the man if his parents knew he was still alive, and the man answered:

"No, it would be too much of a shock for them. I am waiting for the Navy Department to break the news."

Monday morning he talked with friends in a Newark tavern, then disappeared.

His parents, divorced and both remarried, and his sister, went to Newark on hearing the news.

From the description given them by friends, they, too, positively identified the man as "Bill."

But in St. Joseph, Linda, who was married 19 days ago to former Marine Cpl. Joseph O'Signac, who was wounded in the invasion of Tarawa, wondered. She was a bit skeptical of the "positive" identifications. She said:

"He hadn't been there for 11 years, except for one week in 1937 or 1938."

Linda said:

"The Navy Department sent me not only official notice of his death, but his personal effects. These included an onyx and diamond ring which bore his initials. I gave it to him when he entered service, and I know he wouldn't have parted with it."

If Langston is alive, she will go back to him, she said. He is the father of her 8-year-old son, Duane.

Kin to Take 6 Of 7 Neglected Salem Children

Six of the seven children found hungry, unkempt and alone in an unheated, filthy Derby st., Salem, tenement were placed in temporary custody of an uncle and two aunts by order of Judge George B. Sears in Salem court today.

The seventh child, 11-month-old Gloria D'Entremont, is still in North Shore Babies' Hospital, Salem, recuperating from exposure and malnutrition.

The youngsters' mother, Mrs. Georgette D'Entremont, 28, is serving an indefinite term in Framingham Reformatory for neglect. Their father, Martin, is on duty in the Pacific with the Merchant Marine.

The six children, ranging in age from two to nine years, were brought to court wearing new clothing sent to them by anonymous newspaper readers moved by the story of their plight.

Discovered Monday when nieghbors notified police, they have since been under the care of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

Yank Luxuries Thrill GI Brides

By BARBARA WACE

TIDWORTH, England, Jan. 24 (AP)—Little luxuries long denied British women, excited and pleased a long line of GI brides at the post exchange of the U. S. Army's processing camp here today.

Candy bars, combs, safety pins and cosmetics were on sale. The United States-bound brides also had the privilege of buying cigarets at the Army rate of 50 cents a carton, one-tenth of what they were accustomed to pay.

"I haven't seen anything like this for years," one girl said.

(In Belfast, however, 100 women, styling themselves "Forgotten GI Brides," appeared at the office of Consul-general Quincy F. Roberts. He assured them that the Army planned to send a ship to Belfast "as soon as possible" to carry the Ulster wives and children of American servicemen to the United States.)

A group of gaily chatting girls discussed their new friendships formed in two days of communal diaper washing and baby watching.

Two who planned to travel together were pretty Mrs. Kathleen Caddell, wife of Sgt. George E. Caddell of 63 Main st., Spencer, Mass., and Mrs. Ethel M. Boettinger, wife of Cpl. Frederick Boettinger of Easton, Pa.

"We met on the train," Mrs. Caddell explained.

The group also talked feverishly of houses.

Boy and Girl Sweethearts Die in Pact

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 24 (AP)—Their arms clasped tightly about each other in death, the bodies of a 17-year-old high school student and his girl friend, 15, were found today in the automobile of the boy's mother, parked in the family garage. The dead are Aubrey Wayne Matthews, student in John Dewey High School, and Shirley Johnson, who attended Woodrow Wilson High School.

Police said two notes, addressed to the boy were found in the girl's handbag.

One of the letters asked "What show do you want to see for our last night?" While in the other was: "We can go to a show and, well, you know what happens then if you bring the crystals. Please do."

The investigator declared the two had been keeping company for about six months, and had talked of marrying, but were opposed by her father, John Johnson, who felt she was too young.

Carstensen said the bodies were found by the boy's uncle, who reported the garage windows and one of the doors was open, eliminating possibility of carbon monoxide poisoning. A vial containing poison crystals was found in the boy's shirt.

Girl, 13, Registers With Gob As Wife in Brockton Hotel

BROCKTON, Jan. 24—A 13-year-old Randolph school girl testified in district court today she and one of two sailors she met on the street were allowed to register as husband and wife at a Brockton hotel last Sunday night.

The attractive youngster testified at a closed session at which Arthur B. Coy, acting as desk clerk at the Hotel Corine on Belmont st., Brockton, was given a six months' sentence by Judge Rowe for allowing a hotel room to be used for immoral purposes. He was also fined $25 for falsifying hotel records. Coy appealed and was held in $1000.

The girl told the court she identified herself and a sailor as brother and sister, but later changed it to husband and wife, and registered that way. She said she was in the room from 11:15 p. m. to 2 a. m. but was not harmed in any way by the sailors. The sailors were not in court today.

A sixth-grade pupil in a Randolph school, the girl said her parents are divorced, her mother living in Maine and her father in New Jersey.

Lasell Girl's Rail Death Is Mystery

The frozen body of Julie McCormack, 18, Lasell Junior College student and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. McCormack of Greenlawn ave., Wellesley, was found today on the Boston & Albany railroad tracks near Wellesley Farms station under circumstances which puzzled police.

The girl's parents told Wellesley Police Chief Ernest Fisher they had gone to visit a next door neighbor at 7 p. m. yesterday and left their daughter listening to the radio with the understanding she would join them at the neighbor's later.

Mrs. McCormack said that when Julie did not appear after the program they surmised she was writing a letter to a friend overseas.

At eight o'clock, however, Mrs. McCormack telephoned her own home and getting no response went across to find the house empty.

At 8:07 a. m. today John Whitney, station agent at Wellesley Farms, found the body of a girl between tracks about 300 feet from the platform.

Chief Fisher, accompanied by Medical Examiner Frederic Stanwood, went to the scene and ordered the body removed to the Doherty Funeral Parlor. Dr. Stanwood said the girl had suffered a fractured skull, multiple internal injuries and her legs from the knees down were badly mangled. On the death certificate the doctor noted death as due to a fractured skull and other injuries when "struck by a train—accidental."

Police are trying to determine what motive the girl had in going to the station, as there were mail boxes near her home.

Failure to find footprints in the snow alongside the track also puzzled police. They theorized she might have been walking the rails.

It is also possible, they pointed out, that she was standing on the platform and was sideswiped by a moving train which carried her body to the point where it was found.

Atomic Board Voted by UNO

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—The United Nations today ordered the creation of a special commission to devise controls for atomic energy and moved swiftly toward action on three critical political issues involving Iran, Greece and Indonesia.

A few hours after the General Assembly had voted unanimously to set up the atomic commission under the Security Council, Byrnes left for Washington in President Truman's plane, the "Sacred Cow."

In a leave-taking with reporters Byrnes announced that the United States favored the quickest possible public hearings by the Security Council on charges filed by Russia against the British in Greece and Indonesia, and by Iran against Russia.

The Security Council ordered a meeting of its 11 members tomorrow to take up the three cases, and American officials expected that the Council would decide to hold public hearings next week.

Byrnes said the quicker the three cases are given full hearings the better.

Particularly pleased that the first formal action of the Assembly on a major question had as its objective the limitation of military armament, Byrnes said the Americans' next move on the atomic question would be to urge the governments to appoint their members to the new commission as soon as possible so it can get organized at UNO headquarters in the United States.

Other developments today included the proposal by the Americans before the General Assembly's trusteeship committee that hundreds of millions of people under colonial rule be assured that the ideals of the United Nations on self-rule and independence apply to them as well as to the people living under mandates and trusteeships.

The General Assembly adopted a committee report setting the security general's net salary at $20,000 annually plus a $20,000 expense account, and fixing the term of his appointment at five years with the possibility of reappointment for a second five-year term.

Group Delays Picking Interim Site for UNO

After almost a week of survey of Massachusetts and Rhode Island areas, the UNO site inspection delegation prepared to leave for New York today with announcement a decision would be made before Feb. 1 on whether or not Boston would be favorable as an interim site.

The delegation spent a busy day considering new material placed before it by the State UNO committee on the city's possibilities as such a site. They also summoned Atty Gen. Clarence A. Barnes to explain the State laws on eminent domain, which would be involved in land taking.

Barnes told the delegates he anticipated no difficulty in such land-takings and cited the seizure of land by eminent domain for the Quabbin reservoir as an instance where many families were displaced but were cared for without trouble.

During the conference the Boston Opera House, which is larger than Symphony Hall, was mentioned as a possible assembly place in the event Boston was chosen as an interim site for the UNO pending completion of the permanent headquarters.

Two additional hotels, which could be used for housing UNO representatives and their staffs, brought the list to six.

Hyde Park, N. Y., the Chop Mist hill area in Rhode Island and Sudbury were unofficially reported as the three areas favored most by the delegation thus far for a permanent site.

Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, committee chairman, said the Rhode Island site which won the group's favor is the 53-square-mile area comprising Gloucester, Scituate and Foster, R. I.

The area, which forms an almost perfect circle around picturesque "Chop Mist Hill," is the largest area yet viewed by the delegates which is "all in one piece." Reporters accompanying the delegates were so impressed by the area's possibilities they considered it a "dark horse" entry in the UNO home site competition.

500,000 Pacific GIs Back by July

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—An army staff officer told the Senate War Investigating committee today all demobilization schedules for soldiers in the Pacific will be met by return of some 500,000 GIs before July 1.

"Gen. MacArthur has concurred fully and assured that Gen. Eisenhower's demobilization plans will be carried out," Col. Russell F. Eakers, of the War Department personnel staff, told Senators.

The promise came as the special Senate committee resumed an inquiry into idle shipping in the Pacific. The public hearing brought these developments:

1—A report that more than 60 ships, idle since V-J day and loaded in part with building materials and construction equipment, have been directed to return to this country;

2—An estimate by Chairman Mead (D.) of New York, that taxpayers may lose some $10,000,000,000 in salvage of war surpluses;

3—Reports that the 189 "idle merchant ships" reported to the investigating group on Dec. 12 had been reduced to 67 ships on Jan. 8;

4—Testimony that there now are in the Pacific sufficient troop-carrying ships to bring home all the veterans eligible in January and February for release.

Young Horton and two former comrades in arms had petitioned President Truman for permission to marry German sweethearts in the face of an Army ban. He subsequently revealed he had married secretly, without presidential blessing.

Jap Admits 'Mistake' In Letting Captive Die

YOKOHAMA, Jan. 24 (AP)—The war crimes trial of Kaichi Hirate closed today shortly after the former commandant of Mukuran prison camp admitted he was in some measure responsible for the death of Raymond C. Suttle, British prisoner of war. Suttle died of pneumonia.

Asked by Col. William B. Yancey of Harrisonburg, Va., "in view of the fact you ignored the ill prisoner's first plea for medical attention, do you feel you contributed to his death?" Hirate answered, "I think that is one of my mistakes."

SWISS WOMAN FREED

TOKYO, Jan. 24 (AP)—Swiss born Lily Abegg, who was arrested for questioning about pro-Nazi broadcasts, was released because of "insufficient evidence" from Sugamo prison today after four months' incarceration.

These Days

Unique Message

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate

THE ONLY ITEMS left out of the President's message to Congress on the stage of the Union were a recipe for pot-likker and a cure for dandruff.

To make sure that nothing like it had ever been tried before, I went through Presidential messages from George Washington to Franklin D. Roosevelt to see whether any other President had put so much into one single document.

No one had ever tried it. No one had ever thought of putting a decade or two of legislation into a single state paper.

It would, of course, be an interesting experiment if it were possible to discover a connecting thought, a design for living, an ideal to guide a people in these many thousand words, but nothing like that appears.

Mr. Truman wants price control to continue for a year and a half more. But at this moment the principal industries of the nation are on strike because of price control. Every strike could be settled in the flash of an eye by genuine collective bargaining, without government intervention, if price control were lifted.

Why So Many?

He wants to continue his war powers, including priority and inventory controls, in spite of the fact that these very controls have stymied and delayed reconversion by making it so difficult, and at times impossible, for business, particularly small business, to get the materials to start again to produce civilian commodities.

He wants to extend the draft when everyone wants to find a way of bringing all the boys home. And there is no one to tell the American people why so many Americans need to be kept abroad, except to guard surplus war supplies and to police the prostrate Germans and Japanese.

Do we require 2,000,000 men to do that? Gen. MacArthur originally said that all he needed was 200,000 men. Has he ever revised that statement? And whom are we guarding in the Philippines?

And so, Mr. Truman says: "Good wages means good markets." Selah! And he adds: "Good business means more jobs and better wages." Selah! But how do you pay good wages for the good markets when prices squeeze out profits and for the small man produce a loss?

He does not explain that one. So prices are to be held down and wages are to be shoved up, and inventory and priority control are to be retained and a new doctrine in economics is enunciated:

"Private capital and private management," Mr. Truman says, "are entitled to adequate reward for efficiency, but business must recognize that its reward results from the employment of the resources of the nation."

What were those resources producing when the Indians had them? What did similar resources produce in Russia for a thousand years, or in China, or in Brazil?

IT IS NOT RESOURCES IN OR ON THE GROUND THAT PRODUCE GOODS, BUT THEIR EXPLOITATION BY DARING, INGENIOUS AND WISE MEN.

Oil lay in the earth for hundreds of thousands of years until the ingenuity and labor of man brought it forth. Electricity has been in the cosmos longer probably than the earth has been inhabited, but it was not until Franklin, Faraday, Volta and others captured it that it became the servant of man.

Steam is as old as heat, but it was not until James Watt saw a tea kettle and had an inspiration that it became of use to man. And so with Bessemer's steel and Westinghouse's air-brake and Edison's electric light and everything else.

Only Remedy

Yet, Harry Truman brushes all that aside and talks about resources. It was not resources but man that made this country what it had been before the wreckers and despoilers got to work on it. Of course, capital and management and labor should receive an adequate compensation, but how can they in the economic strait-jacket which the government has devised for them?

Give the industry of this country its head and it will outproduce the rest of the world. But it will not do it on the formula proposed in Mr. Truman's address to Congress. That address kills initiative, but what is worse, it kills hope for a return to common sense. And they say he comes from Missouri!

Would Ease Vet Housing Loans by Savings Banks

Massachusetts savings banks sought permission to lend one billion dollars for new homes, and municipal and labor leaders urged that communities be authorized to act in solving the housing problem, at hearings today before legislative committees at the State House.

C. Rodgers Burgin, president of the Massachusetts Savings Banks Ass'n, called for favorable action by the banking committee on his bill placing savings banks on the same basis as co-operative banks and federal loan agencies.

"One million new units must be built in this country each year for the next 10 years and most of them will be here in the East," Burgin declared.

"The money in our savings banks will be needed and it seems unfair that existing banking laws prevent use of this huge reservoir under favorable conditions."

Burgin's bill provides that savings banks be permitted to loan up to 80 per cent of cost of construction and that loans be limited to $12,000 with at least three per cent interest. Loans would be secured by real estate first mortgages.

Cities and towns would be empowered to acquire property by eminent domain for use of veterans, under a bill sponsored by the State Federation of Labor.

Representatives of six cities endorsed the measure before the mercantile affairs committee and urged immediate action.

Asst. Corp. Counsel James Kelleher appeared for Mayor Curley. Among others were City Mgr. John B. Atkinson of Cambridge and Mayor James P. Meehan of Lawrence.

Mayor Leo A. Roy of Lowell said 500 veterans were on a waiting list for room in an apartment block housing 536 persons. He said his son, recently discharged, was one of them.

Mayor Joseph H. Downey of Brockton testified 900 veterans were house hunting there and more than 2500 other servicemen were expected to seek assistance. Somerville is seeking places for 327 veterans already, Mayor G. Edward Bradley said.

In addition to the eminent domain proviso, the measure calls for municipalities to be given the right to appropriate funds to purchase or lease homes for veterans, establish information centers, provide temporary shelter and buy prefabricated homes.

Labor organizations favoring the bill were represented by Kenneth I. Taylor of the State Federation of Labor and George F. Markham of CIO.

Meanwhile, South Shore civic leaders appealed to President Truman to declare a national emergency to relieve the housing shortage. The petition was voted on suggestion of Com. William L. Roach of Wollaston Post 295, American Legion.

Grace Moore Robber Given 15 Years

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Jan. 24 (AP)—Adopting the recommendation of State Attorney Lorm W. Willis in superior court today, Judge John A. Cornell sentenced Henry G. Barnes, 50, to a 15-to-20-year State Prison sentence on a charge of larceny in connection with ransacking the Newton home of Opera Singer Grace Moore last October.

House Group Urges Statehood for Hawaii

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—A House territories subcommittee recommended today that the full committee "give immediate consideration to legislation to admit Hawaii to statehood."

Cape Cottages Searched For Three Jail Breakers

State troopers and deputy sheriffs today began a house-to-house search of summer cottages in the Hyannis area in their hunt for three dangerous prisoners who slugged their way out of the Barnstable County jail. All sections of Cape Cod remained under surveillance as police officials clung to the belief that the men who beat prison guards Harold Jacobs and Warren Ryder were still in the Barnstable area.

Troopers maintained a constant guard on the two highway bridges over the Cape Cod Canal, the only highway connection with the mainland.

However, Cape residents pointed out it would have been possible for the trio to have fled to Woods Hole and boarded a steamer for New Bedford. The boats, serving Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard, make regular stops at Woods Hole.

In the belief the escapees may have headed for Woods Hole to make a steamer connection, police today asked Army officials to make a search of all vacated barracks at Camp Edwards, on the theory the prisoners might be hiding out there. Camp Edwards, on the Bourne-Falmouth line, is in the area the prisoners would travel on their way to Woods Hole.

Meanwhile, police in Boston received several anonymous tips early today that the escaped trio had been seen in downtown Boston, but detectives said the reports were without foundation.

Sheriff Lauchlan M. Crocker, who is directing the Cape search, identified the escapees as Herbert R. Moomhower, Jr., 19, of Falmouth, Augustine Barbarosa, 34, of Taunton, who were awaiting grand jury action on burglary charges, and Jerald K. Ellis, 17, of Hyannis, who was serving a six-month sentence on a charge of carrying a loaded gun without authority.

Ellis also faced a two-year term for breaking, entering and larceny.

The two guards remained in critical condition today at the Cape Cod Hospital, Hyannis. Crocker said the fugitives seized inner door keys from Jacobs after felling him with an iron pipe and then knocked Ryder unconscious when he appeared to investigate.

The sherriff said he did not believe the men were armed, but added it was possible they would be able to obtain weapons if they remained at large.

Teeth in Joke

Objecting to her husband's jokes at the dinner table cost her two teeth, Mrs. Mabel B. Norman of Winter st., Saugus, testified in Essex Probate Court today in seeking an uncontested divorce from Daniel Norman of Lynn.

She told Judge John V. Phelan that Norman knocked her teeth out and smashed dishes by pulling the tablecloth. Judge Phelan took the case under advisement.

Butter-Milk Epic

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 24 (AP)—What with the shortage and all, that 2100 pounds of butter in Tony Freese's truck was pretty important stuff. Milk, on the othere hand, isn't so hard to get.

So when the truck caught fire, Freese unhesitatingly dumped 30 gallons of milk on the blaze. The butter was saved.

Can't Shed Husband Who Rued Wedlock

"We would have to build an annex to the courthouse if we granted a divorce to every woman whose husband said he wished he had never married," Judge Robert C. Wilson, Jr., commented in Suffolk Probate Court today in denying a divorce to Mrs. Ida Aronson of Millett st., Dorchester.

Mrs. Aronson told the court Myer had become indifferent and brutal less than a month after their marriage, June 4, 1944. She quoted him as saying, "I don't know why I got married."

He left her twice, she said.

On one occasion when friends were visiting, she testified, she put her hand over his mouth when he became excited and he threw her to the floor.

Judge Wilson said indifference and neglect were not grounds for divorce.

"Here, there is only one act of cruelty — when he threw her down," the court said. "It is very dangerous business for a wife to hold her hand over her husband's mouth. If I were running my house and my wife put her hand over my mouth there would be some excitement."

Judge Wilson suggested Mrs. Aronson wait and seek a divorce on grounds of cruelty.

In the same court Mrs. Grace H. Kelly of Chestnut st., Beacon Hill, was granted an uncontested divorce from Louis B. Kelly of Moundsville, W. Va., after testifying her husband had told her she was not his social equal.

She said he became angry when there was no tablecloth for guests and knocked her down. While walking after a rain, she said, he pushed her toward the puddles so he wouldn't get his feet wet. They have one child whom he has never seen.

Pecking Hubby Soaked $5 a Kiss

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 24 (AP)—His wife's kisses cost him $5 each, Sidney Raskin, bakery executive, charged in domestic relations court.

His wife, Actress Dorlene Welch, told reporters:

"I did it to discourage him. He was always buzzing and pecking around. It was annoying.

"If he didn't have $5 with him, I'd take what he had on account."

Their contested divorce suit is set for trial next summer. Meanwhile, Judge Kurtz Kauffman denied her request for alimony.

Franco Denies Axis Tie, Supported U. S.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

AP World Traveler

MADRID, Jan. 24—Generalissimo Franco, chief of the Spanish State, has granted me an interview which has taken one of the most unusual turns I've encountered in a long experience with heads of governments and diplomats.

Highlights of his statements are:

He is anxious for good relations with the United States. He never subscribed to the policies or to the political views of Hitler and Mussolini and he condemns their persecutions. Spain is developing along her own lines, uninfluenced by either Germany or Italy, and he (Franco) is heading for absolute democratic rule by the people.

As for the hotly debated question of a return of the Spanish monarchy, he says:

"It will be approached when this is suitable to the interests of the nation. When this time comes, it will have to be the Spaniards themselves who pronounce themselves in its favor."

When he had disposed of the formal queries and answers, I said to him:

"The people of the United States have fought a great war against Nazism and Fascism. Thousands of our boys have died for this cause. Rightly or wrongly the American public feels Spain was in effect an ally of Germany and Italy, and it finds it hard to forgive that. Did you subscribe to or support Nazi and Fascist policies?"

The generalissimo shook his head.

"No," he declared categorically. "I did not. Spain wasn't influenced by Germany and Italy, but has been developing along its own lines. We condemned all the persecutions which were carried out by those countries. There was no racial trouble in Spain. The Jews weren't persecuted here, nor was any other religion. There is religious freedom for all in Spain."

"Do you subscribe to the political views of Hitler and Mussolini?" I persisted.

He replied emphatically he did not, and then said in amplification:

"Spain went through a bad civil war, and after such a conflict the country must proceed carefully. It can't jump to another regime haphazardly."

Hawaii Lacked Defense Radar, Short Testifies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short charged today that the War Department delayed setting up radar in Hawaii in 1941, while it completed installations in New York city, Seattle and San Francisco.

Short's charge was bolstered when he read to the Pearl Harbor investigating committee a telegram he said he had received yesterday from Waterloo, Ia., signed by Maj. George D. Leask of the Army Signal Corps.

Leask said that when he was transferred to San Francisco on Dec. 10, 1941, he found three radar towers "lying on an open pier" there. It was not until several weeks later that he received instructions from Washington to ship them to Honolulu immediately, the telegram said.

Short told the committee the Army had hired experts from the Radio Corp. to help install radar equipment on the mainland.

"When it came to Hawaii," he said, "it was just a question of the officers digging out what information they could and putting it together. It looked like the War Department was more interested in developing radar on the mainland than in Hawaii."

The witness said none of the permanent radar stations on Oahu was in operation at the time of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. A movable station, being operated for practice, picked up the Jap planes, but the information was not correctly interpreted.

Short said he had not recommended any disciplinary action against Lt. Col. (then Lt.) Kermit A. Tyler, who dismissed the radar report of approaching planes as unimportant, because Tyler was inexperienced.

6500 Kaiser-Frazer Cars Sold in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—Joseph W. Frazer, president of the Kaiser-Frazer Automobile Corp., said in a formal statement today 6500 orders for Kaiser and Frazer cars, totalling more than $8,500,000, had been placed in the first four days of their initial showing here.

Vet Hospital To Get New Equipment

Construction of a new operating room, nurses' home, quarters for medical officers and installation of modern physiotherapy equipment will begin soon at West Roxbury Veterans' Hospital, Cong. Christian A. Herter, Back Bay, announced today.

The improvements have been authorized by Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, acting chief medical director of the Veterans' Administration.

Other additions planned include a gymnasium and pool, a school for orderlies, a modern laundry, and more surgical equipment.

The changes were proposed in a report by Dr. Frank R. Ober, Back Bay, and Dr. Henry M. Pollock of Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, at the request of Cong. Herter.

Truman Adds To Day's News

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—President Truman, in his press conference today disclosed these news items:

Gen. Arnold, who has been ill, will soon retire as chief of the Army Air Forces and Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, wartime leader of strategic bombing forces in Europe and the Pacific, will replace him.

The proposed expansion of White House executive offices won't change the appearance of the presidential mansion as far as the public can observe.

Proposed United Nations trusteeships of conquered islands definitely will not be permitted to interfere with the nation's defense requirements.

The new national foreign intelligence service is a practical program and, such a pre-war setup might have minimized the chances of a Pearl Harbor attack.

Why the Third Finger, Left Hand?

The ancients believed that the vein of love ran from the third finger directly to the heart. Edward VI, in the Book of Common Prayer, in 1549, ordained the use of the left hand, and all English speaking peoples now follow this custom.

The New City Family

Michael J. Manning, City Registrar

The youngest member of the Curley cabinet, 33-year-old Michael J. Manning of Monument st., Charlestown, was appointed city registrar by the man who has been a father to him since he was orphaned as a little boy.

"It's been a long walk from where I started to this position," he said. "One of Curley's qualities of greatness is that he never rises without bringing someone up with him."

Manning is married to the former Helen Bohner of Dorchester, and they have four children, Claire, 14; Charlotte, 13; Mary Lou, 6, and Michael J. Jr., 5.

His interest in politics began soon after his school days at St. Columbkille's and Brighton High, "and believe it or not, I wanted to be a politician because I wanted to spend my life rendering service to someone else. That was my motive."

At 17 he was campaign manager

MICHAEL J. MANNING

for a young man running for House of Representatives in Ward 8, Curley's old home ward.

"When I was 20 I ran for House of Representatives, but took a beautiful shellacking," he laughed.

The new registrar of births, deaths and marriages was active in the old Tammany Club, Ilsley st., and, while Daniel Gilfix, now judge in Municipal Court, was president, interested himself in bringing youth into the club. Later he was secretary of the Curley Club of Massachusetts.

He has been active in all City campaigns and, during the two Congressional contests and while he was governor, was Curley's personal aide. For the past three years he was Board of Operations Officer of the OPA, with 3 boards under his supervision, from Lincoln to Rockport.

"Being personal aide, I have had the rare opportunity of being with Curley in his own home. He has been kind and helpful to me and has taught me what it's like to have a father," Manning said.

COMING TO NEW ENGLAND*
BY THE END OF 1946

ENOUGH
NEW TELEPHONES
TO SERVE A CITY OF
350,000
PEOPLE . .

*By New England, in this advertisement, we mean the territory served by this company . . . New England except Connecticut.

The installations planned for 1946 call not only for new telephones, but for new central office equipment, more wires and cables, new land and buildings. The job will be spread over five New England states . . . will cover 58,307 square miles . . . will include hundreds of communities, each with its special requirements. It's like building the complete telephone plant for a city of 350,000 . . . but vastly more complex, considering the wide area covered and the number of individual problems involved.

This big construction program has already enabled us to fill thousands of requests for telephone service. By late summer, we hope to fill all orders now on hand, and many, of course, will be filled long before that time.

About $35,000,000 will be invested in new telephone plant this year. It will give New England some 100,000 more telephones than it had in 1945. It will put more people than ever within reach of your telephone.

K.O. Expansion Of White House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) —The House today blocked plans for a $1,650,000 addition to the White House a few hours after President Truman said he didn't think there was much opposition in Congress to the expansion.

By a standing vote of 110 to 41, the chamber ordered $883,660 of the fund for construction, voted today, should be used for general White House expenses for the next fiscal year, and the balance be restored to the treasury.

Republicans earlier had served notice they would undertake to cut every item in the big bill that can be reduced.

PRISON FOR HUB KILLER

Harold K. Berryman, 19, of Parkview st., Roxbury, was found guilty in Suffolk superior court today of manslaughter in the stabbing death of Thomas J. Murphy, 25, of Hampden st., Roxbury. Judge Jesse W. Morton imposed a four to seven year State Prison term.

PROTEST WHARF RATES

Complaining 35-cents a ton wharfage rate for trucks on Boston docks was "unfair and discriminatory," representatives of trucking firms today appealed to the Port Authority for revision. The truckers said they should not pay more than the 28 cents paid by railroads.

Notables at Rites For McSweeney

State and city police officials and former colleagues in the newspaper and advertising businesses thronged Holy Name Church, West Roxbury, today to pay final tribute at a requiem mass to Eugene M. McSweeney, former commissioner of public safety and one-time Boston police commissioner.

Rt. Rev. Charles A. Finn, pastor of the Holy Name Church, celebrated the mass for the former circulation manager of the Hearst newspapers in Boston. Following the mass the body, accompanied by an honor guard of eight state troopers and members of the family, was taken to Marlboro for burial.

Honorary pallbearers were Joseph Stanton, Daniel McHugh, Arthur Gavin, Joseph Volk, Thomas Norton and Nicholas Altiers.

State Sec. Frederic W. Cook led a delegation of state officials including John F. Stokes, public safety commissioner, and Capt. Joseph Ferrari of the state police detective bureau. Boston Police Comr. Thomas F. Sullivan was accompanied by former Deputy Supt. John M. Anderson, Capts. Thomas Duggan (ret.), Thomas F. Casey, Joseph O'Neill and William Donovan. Street Comr. Charles Manion represented Mayor Curley.

Representatives of newspapers attending the services were: Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Hearst newspapers in New England; Ernest F. Hoftyzer, advertising director of the local Hearst newspapers; James P. Murphy, managing editor of the Daily Record; Melvin Carr of the Record; John Fahey of the circulation department of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser; John Griffin, Sunday editor of the Boston Post; Howard Fitzpatrick, Boston Post; John P. E. Dempsey, advertising manager of the Herald-Traveler; Timothy J. Moynihan, circulation manager, Herald-Traveler; Edward A. Costello and William Cash, Boston Globe.

A-Bomb Tests

of the near-by islands and chance sea or air travelers.

According to Blandy, the primary mission is to determine the effects of the atomic bomb on naval vessels and to gain information of value to the national defense. He added:

"The ultimate results of the tests, so far as the Navy is concerned, will be their translation into terms of U. S. sea power."

Thus the experiments may result in revolutionary changes in fleets of the future. Some experts have predicted the atomic bomb may even spell the doom of surface warships.

The initial tests will be made in a lagoon about 21 miles long. It is formed by 20 small islands and is located 2096 miles from Honolulu and 1573 miles from Guam.

The most modern scientific techniques and equipment will be used to record the force of the blast to permit observers to stay well out of range.

For instance, "drone" (unmanned, radio-controlled) aircraft will be used to obtain close-up recordings of radio activity. Automatic motion picture cameras will be set up on the fringing islands.

Army, Navy and civilian experts on Blandy's staff will include the following:

Maj. Gen. W. E. Kepner (Blandy's deputy), R. Adm. W. S. Parsons, Dr. R. A. Sawyer, Navy Captains J. A. Snackenberg, R. Brodie and C. H. Lyman, and Brig. Gens. T. J. Betts and D. H. Blakelock

Repair and salvage facilities will be made available to prepare vessels not destroyed for the second test. Some ships will be returned to the U. S. for study if they are seaworthy.

Another purpose of the experiments is to give Army Air Forces personnel training in using the atomic bomb for attack purposes.

There are only 161 natives on Bikini atoll. They will be moved to a safe area

Judge Jones Dies In Newburyport

NEWBURYPORT, Jan. 24—Nathaniel N. Jones, 84, who resigned as Newburyport district court justice last May, died today at his home in High st. He had been in ill health for several years.

He had been a special justice of the court for nearly 35 years before he was appointed presiding justice in 1922 by ex-Gov. Cox.

Surviving are his widow, Jennie Upton Davis Jones, whom he married 60 years ago last June, and six children.

Nuernberg Files To Be Flown Here

NUERNBERG, Jan. 24 (AP)—A million-word manuscript giving bases of the United States case against Nazism in captured documents and excerpts from prosecution briefs will be flown to Washington tomorrow by Ens. William E. Jackson, son of the chief U. S. prosecutor, Justice Robert H. Jackson.

His father assigned him to help arrange for government publication of the work.

At least 90 per cent of contents of the captured documents never were introduced at the Nuernberg trial. Under Jackson's ruling, these cannot be studied by Allied correspondents here.

SON-IN-LAW AND DAD ARE REGULAR

No More Constipation Now —They Eat Famous Cereal

Constipated? Harsh laxatives got you feeling down? Then read this sincere, unsolicited letter:

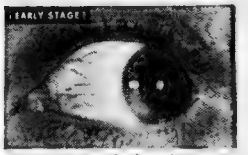
"I was troubled with constipation for years—until I started eating an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN everyday. Never have any trouble now. Told my father-in-law about it. Now he takes ALL-BRAN and has the same results as I do. He is 82 years young." N. Mawson, 16 Beverly Street, Methuen, Mass.

If your trouble is constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet, you may never have to take another laxative—if you eat an ounce of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water. Try it for ten days. If not completely satisfied, send the empty carton to Kellogg's of Battle Creek and get double your money back. ALL-BRAN is not a purgative. It's one of nature's finest sources of gentle-acting bulk, which helps promote normal laxation! It's a wholesome cereal made from the vital outer layers of wheat. Eat ALL-BRAN every day either as a cereal or in muffins.

Get ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

EYES MAY EXHIBIT first signs of "TISSUE STARVATION"

DOCTORS CALL this advanced "Tissue Starvation" xerosis conjunctivae. Note discoloration of the eye whites produced by a long-term shortage of vitamins.



WHITES OF EYES in the early or common stage of "Tissue Starvation." Eye whites in perfect health should be clear and blush-white, not "muddy" or cloudy.

"TISSUE STARVATION" is producible by a lack of vitamins in the living cells of your body— Its signs often appear first in Eyes, Skin and Mouth

LOOK at the whites of your eyes in a mirror. If they're dull and cloudy-looking—not a clear, bluish-white—you may suspect a "Tissue Starvation," producible by vitamin deficiencies in your body cells.

You see, vitamins aren't found only in our food. They're part and parcel of the cells of our own bodies, too. When you lack vitamins, your eye tissues may be the first place where signs of deficiency show. To prevent error—few Americans need fear the severe, advanced condition to the left above. But the "Early Stage" at the right is all too common.

Of course, dull, "muddy" eyes may result from other causes besides a deficiency of vitamins. But "Tissue Starvation" is a frequent and basic reason, and the advanced medical thought is that thousands of Americans DO carry some evidences of "Tissue Starvation" in eyes, mouths, skin or elsewhere. So see your doctor—if you think you have lesions that warn of vitamin deficiency—and help guard against this form of "Tissue Starvation" by taking One-A-Day (brand) Multiple Vitamins—A, B_1B_2, C and D, plus Niacin, Calcium Pantothenate and B_6—all in one capsule.

Maine Woman Held in Fire Quiz

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 25 (AP)—Blonde Laurel E. Grenier, 27, formerly of Biddeford, was arraigned today in municipal court on an arson charge based on an apartment house fire Jan. 7 in which four perished and a dozen were injured.

Judge Edmund P. Mahoney ordered Miss Grenier, tenant in the building, held in $5000 for hearing next week. No plea was entered.

County Atty Richard S. Chapman told the court he planned a psychiatrist's examination.

The warrant against Miss Grenier, a divorcee, was issued after a state insurance department inspector charged she had tossed a smouldering bag of trash into a hallway the night of the fire.

Girl Mother, 12, And Baby Thrive

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 24 (INS)—An unidentified 12-year-old girl who gave birth to a six pound, one ounce baby Friday, was reported to be getting along satisfactorily today.

Attending physicians at the Albuquerque hospital where the rare birth occurred and where the girl is being cared for, said the baby also is in good health and is being nursed by her young mother.

Officials refused to comment on the report that the father is a 15-year-old boy, and there was no verification. Newsmen and photographers have been refused access to the hospital where mother and baby are under doctor's care.

6000 in State Get Tax Refund Checks

First refund checks on income tax returns filed this year have been mailed to more than 6000 Federal taxpayers in Massachusetts and about 1500 additional checks are being issued daily under new procedure in the Internal Revenue office.

Collector Denis W. Delaney said checking and verification of returns is now made in Boston instead of outside the State.

Teachers' Pension Increase Sought

Retirement pensions of Massachusetts school teachers would be increased to $750 a year under a bill heard today by the legislative committee on pension and old-age assistance.

No oppositnon was recorded on the bill, which proposed an average increase in pensions of $212 a year.

13 Film Stars to Take Part In F. D. Polio Fund Parties

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24 (AP)—Thirteen of filmdom's famous will participate in Washington's celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday on behalf of the infantile paralysis fund Jan. 29 and 30.

The Motion Picture Industry's public information committee made the list public today.

Leaving Friday by train will be Van Johnson, Alexis Smith, Eddie Bracken, Paul Henreid, Angela Lansbury, Diana Lynn, Zachary Scott, Reginald Gardiner and Margaret O'Brien. William Bendix will fly east Saturday. Charles Coburn, Cesar Romero and Orson Welles will join the group from New York.

Broadcasts, visits to military hospitals, theater appearances, luncheons—including one at the White House—and a round of dinners are on the schedule. Coburn has been selected to read Robert Sherwood's tribute to the late President at a dinner Wednesday night in the Mayflower Hotel.

The trip will mark the eighth Birthday Ball celebration in which movie stars have participated.

Straws for Spring

Turban—Fasnion Editor Ruth Mugglebee says this turban of Tuscan straw will be a sure winner with the women come spring. A Sally Victor creation, it's an off-the-face number draped and embroidered with black paillettes. The crown is open.

Civil War's Over—It's a big day in the little community of Town Line, N. Y., the rebels' last stand 500 miles north of the Mason-Dixon line. Townspeople are voting on whether to rejoin the union after 85 years. In the all-out celebration of its 250 population, actor Cesar Romero receives a colonel's commission by proxy for actor Charles Coburn from William Urschell, oldest resident of the town. Pretty Martha Stewart holds the Confederate flag, as Miss Ellen Gedda of Cleveland prepares to raise the Stars and Stripes.

WE MUST END BRUTALITY

HOUSE BILL NO. 117, filed by Representative Harrington of Salem, is one of the most important and necessary measures awaiting action in the Massachusetts Legislature.

It should have the whole-hearted support of EVERY BELIEVER IN HUMANITY in the Commonwealth. It says:

"Whoever experiments or operates in any manner whatsoever upon any living dog or cat for any purpose other than the healing or curing of said dog or cat shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than three months nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

Somewhere right here in Boston, even while this editorial is being written, a pet dog—the loyal, faithful, almost human companion of your child or your neighbor's child—is being horribly butchered by a vivisectionist.

The poor little animal, whose only fault was that he loved and trusted mankind too much, is being literally cut to pieces—from wagging tail to lapping tongue.

Every nerve in his tiny body cries out in excruciating agony.

But the vivisectionist goes on cutting . . . slashing . . . hacking. There is no anaesthesia to ease the pain, no sympathy, no mercy.

Only outraged Nature and death can put an end to the outrage, and then there will be another animal—perhaps some other child's stolen pet—for more experimentation.

SUCH BARBARISM will continue and INCREASE until the Legislature, led by its joint Ways and Means Committee, arouses itself and passes HOUSE BILL NO. 117.

A law similar to this has been on the statute books of England for many years without the slightest harmful effect on the medical profession of that country.

Penicillin, the wonder drug which even the advocates of vivisection are hailing as one of the greatest achievements of the age, was an English discovery.

Thousands of our soldier sons, wounded in the battles of the late war, have returned to us, sound and healthy, because of what the English scientists accomplished WITHOUT STOOPING TO THE DEGRADATION OF VIVISECTION OF THE TYPE STILL TOLERATED IN THE SUPPOSEDLY ENLIGHTENED COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS.

The English are in thorough agreement with the late Robert G. Ingersoll who more than fifty years ago wrote:

"Vivisection is the Inquisition—the hell—of science. All the cruelty which the human—or rather the inhuman—heart is capable of inflicting is IN THIS ONE WORD. Below this there is no depth. The word lies like a coiled serpent at the bottom of the abyss."

We can and must protect our cherished pets—our faithful dogs and family cats.

We can do it and we must do it by appealing to our Senators and Representatives to pass House Bill No. 117 without delay.

Write Now!

Here are the names of the members of the Joint Legal Affairs Committee who will determine the fate of House Bill No. 117. Write to them NOW. Implore them to end the brutalities of vivisection.

SENATORS—Edward M. Rowe of Cambridge; Ralph C. Mahar of Orange; J. Elmer Callahan of Salem; Michael A. Flanagan of Lawrence.

REPRESENTATIVES—Louis Lobel of Boston; Edward R. Butterworth of Nahant; George Greene of Boston; A. John Serino of Cambridge; Earle S. Tyler of Watertown; Eben Parsons of Marblehead; Talbot T. Tweedy of Taunton; Charles Kaplan of Boston; Charles J. Artesani of Brighton; Edmund E. Capodilupo of Boston, and Ernest W. Dullea of Boston.

RECENT DISPATCHES indicate the possibility of John Loder's being the third husband to fail to make Hedy Lamarr happy. A divorce may result. We don't like to see a person of Hedy's prominence and popularity making so many appearances in the divorce courts. It sets a bad example for her admirers. Therefore, I have instructed our Horses & Women experts to engage in some research which will be filed under the head of "How to Make Hedy Lamarr Happy" and will be available to all who may be interested in this accomplishment. Hedy is Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) born. All stargazers seem agreed Scorpios have dangerous tempers which make them difficult to get along with. Therefore, husbands of Scorpios should practice making soft answers to turn away wrath. The Scorpio girls are said to be inclined to try to dominate their mates. It is also claimed by stargazers that they screech, scream and toss tantrums if they do not have their own way. However, I see no reason why a man of strong character and great endurance who has the patience of Job should not be able, with the advice of our Horses & Women experts, to make a Scorpio woman happy.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Are you familiar with a song titled "Bridget Donohue"? A—Never heard of it . . . Q—Do you recall a film star named Jacqueline Logan? A—Certainly. She was a Corsicana, Tex., girl, and was one of the first of the Lone Star State beauties to make good on Broadway and in Hollywood. She was a Ziegfeld Follies girl. Came to Hollywood in the 1920s and was a silent film star for many years . . . Q—What was the passage from Shakespeare that your Horses & Women experts suggested that girls who have had their hearts broken by unfeeling, double-crossing male heels recite instead of moaning torch songs? A—It is the following:

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever;
One foot in sea, and one on shore
To one thing constant never.
Then sigh not so
But let them go
And be you blithe and bonny
Converting all your sounds of woe
Into hey, Nonny, Nonny.
—SHAKESPEARE.

SHAVING: Still to be noted is the claim "only one man in seven shaves daily." Have never seen it stated how often the other six men shave. The immortal diarist Samuel Pepys was a government official and generally supposed to be a neat and well-dressed fellow, but in his diary is the following: "Up betimes and shaved myself after a week's growth." If I went without a shave for a week I would look like Man Mountain Dean or a first baseman for the House of David ball club.

PROBLEM: As the horses parade to the post for the Kentucky Derby the band softly plays "My Old Kentucky Home." For the post parade of the Preakness at Pimlico the band plays "Maryland, My Maryland." Now there is talk of having a band present at Santa Anita the day the $100,000 handicap is run. The problem is, what will this band play for the parade to the post for what sports scribes so fondly refer to as "The Hundred Grander." How about "My Little Gray Home in the West" or "Home on the Range"? Just can't decide on this post parade number. However, have a good idea of an exit march after Santa Anita's baffling eighth race. What could be more appropriate than "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?"

HAPPY THOUGH MARRIED: "My husband and I are still honeymooning after 12 years of marriage," writes a Pittsburgher. "Undoubtedly the fact we have so much in common helps. We both dabble in oil paints and do a little soap sculpture. We also play a lot of pool together on our table at home. Occasionally we shoot craps. On weekends we stage a small party and have a few highballs together. We also read a great many good books and discuss them. My husband, born on July 23, is six feet tall. I was born on Nov. 23 and am five feet three, am a redhead. My husband plays the piano, banjo or any stringed instrument. I am not at all good looking but my man thinks I am."

TALLER THAN SHE: It was Louis XIV of France who started the "now you can be taller than she is" movement. So put out by the fact many ladies of his court towered over him was Louis that he ordered the royal bootmaker to make him high-heeled shoes. This was the origin of the high-heel style later so monopolized by women that a man to wear them seemed effeminate.

"Don't look up, David—it only encourages them!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24—As an Anglo-Saxon or Anglo-Celt of more than 50 years experience, I should like to call attention to some injustices that have been put upon us by persons, whose very purpose has been to abate injustice to others.

During the war, for example, an organization calling itself the Writers' War Board, and a very self-important lot of hacks I thought they were, ran a propaganda against the use of Anglo-Saxon names exclusively for the heroes and heroines of fiction stories.

Westbrook Pegler

The point was well-taken, because, after all, the telephone books contain millions of Latin, Slav, German and Jewish names, suitable for imaginary characters arbitrarily endowed with strong virtues, fine principles and lofty sanctions.

But, on further thought, it has occurred to me that if we are always the heroes and heroines, we are also always the murderers and swindlers, conspirators, deadbeats, rakes, trollops and man-grinding magnates of brutal capitalism.

Agreeing that we are not demonstrably finer than any other element which is a handsome concession, because our record is distinctly superior to most others, I insist that we have no monopoly of evil traits and conduct as the pattern of fiction suggests.

IN THE LAST 20 years or so, many men and women bearing Jewish names have become renowned as liberals, by virtue of fine thinking and constant campaigning for human rights, although some others have gone far beyond liberalism, becoming impatient of dissenting opinion and devoted to absolutism.

But the Anglo-Saxons gave the Western world the Magna Charta and British common law, the basis of our own law, and the people who abolished slavery in the United States were almost exclusively Anglo-Saxons and Celts.

I anticipate your saying that Anglo-Saxons, on the other hand, established such slavery and fought to preserve it and yield the point but return to the fact that we decided that slavery was wrong and corrected our error and atoned for it in great suffering.

These are reasons why I say our record is distinctly superior to others. Does anybody want to match?

Suppose it were agreed that the fictioneers mix up their delivery and admit the Latins, Slavs and so forth to membership in the cult of heroes. Would it then be agreed, also, that a due proportion of equally vicious characters be identified with all the other strains that make up the citizenship of the United States?

Knowing what I do know about our psychology, I tell you the authors and the publishers would be damned with enormous clamor as fomenters of hatred, guilty of a deliberate attempt to set neighbor against neighbor and flood the gutters with the gore of innocents.

But doesn't this evince a bigotry against the Anglo-Saxon and don't we, by our indifference to current and past practice in fiction, prove our patience and a rather superior generosity?

THERE HAVE BEEN, of late, in New York, two stage plays in which Negroes come off with all the honors of character and virtue and the whites, Anglo-Saxons, too, are portrayed as a vicious lot, on total score.

I dislike the theme of miscegenation but can't quarrel with the premises, realizing that such things could be. But, neither in all my reading nor all the plays I have seen has any Negro been represented as a low-down, thieving, generally criminal no-good, although I am sure all reasonable Negroes would agree that there are such.

To our discredit the so-called Aryan German belongs to our tribe. This is our shame, although it can be said that the rest of the Anglo-Saxon world pitched in to destroy the monster. But, in Russia, when Kerensky and the decent, liberal Russians had deposed the Czar and were trying to create a truly liberal regime, taking all the risk, Lenin and Trotsky emerged from safe refuge to thwart him, destroyed the intelligent good Russians in ghastly massacres and famines and established a dictatorship which, today, practices slavery with millions of captives.

Except in detail, the record there matches that of Adolf Hitler and you will search the story of all this in vain for a single Anglo-Saxon name.

But this might lead to recriminations and must be stopped. I only wanted to point out that we do have a very good record, all things considered, and only a fair share, and not a monopoly, of the villains of the human race.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 24—In 30 days—count them—Gene Kelly will be out of the Navy and back on the M-G-M lot. Right along with this announcement comes news that Gregory La Cava, who has been signed on a long-term contract, will direct Gene in his first movie, "Life's for the Living."

Gene Kelly

When Pandro Berman, the producer, told me about the story I visualized a lot of dances for Gene, who is one of the top dancers in our business. But it's no dancing for Gene. It's a serious postwar story about what happens to the boys when they take off their uniforms—a psychological reaction to the humdrum everyday life. Frankly, I am a little disappointed that Gene isn't going to dance. Maybe just for me they'll sneak in one number. I would love to see him go into his routine.

I COULD MAKE a pun out of John H. Auer's obtaining the rights to Sophie Tucker's "Some of These Days" (days to Auer—that's a joke, son!—a Hollywood hulu!) but since this purchase is news, I'll restrain myself. Auer, former director at RKO, is resigning from that company to form his own independent set-up and his first venture will be Sophie's colorful biography of show days. It's interesting, too, that the red-hot mamma will play herself and sing her own songs in the latter part of the movie. A younger, blonde edition will play Sophie in the early part.

IF JACK BEUTEL was ever hurt or disappointed because his boss, Howard Hughes, had refused to loan him to other companies after "The Outlaw," he's smiling again now. Jack is here on a 30-day leave from the Navy, and on Monday night Howard tossed a party in his honor which reunited the entire company of "The Outlaw." After the dinner, Howard told Beutel: "I think you are a fine actor. You have nothing to worry about when you get out of the Navy. I'll see you have the right pictures." Howard very seldom hosts parties so Jack should be flattered. He's the guest of Alexis Smith and Craig Stevens during his stay here.

IT HAS NEVER been my policy to get into a discussion on the Academy Awards. After all, I believe the motion picture people have the right to choose what pictures, what stars and what directors they want. But, I do feel that some of the pictures that were made early in the year get a bad break because they are forgotten. "National Velvet," "Enchanted Cottage," "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" shouldn't be forgotten — nor should the performances of Dorothy McGuire for "Enchanted Cottage" and "Tree," and Elizabeth Taylor for "National Velvet." I understand that Dorothy McGuire is a dark horse and is running neck and neck with Ingrid Bergman and Joan Crawford.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: There's no moral to this story. Maybe you'd better skip it if you're allergic to horse racing—but it's a very good human interest yarn. I won't mention the name of the hotel, but a waitress named Kate was talking to one of the guests who said: "You ought to bet on Alibi Kate." She said: "I'd much rather bet on Deviled Egg, because I serve so many." He said: "Bet on both of them." "How do you parlay a bet?" she asked. He said, "Give me two dollars, and I'll bet on Alibi Kate, and if it comes in, I'll put your money on Deviled Egg." Alibi Kate came in and paid $149. He planked all her winnings on Deviled Egg, which paid $129. There should be a moral to this, but the only moral is she won $8600—and quit her job.

CRAIG RICE, the girl who writes those mystery stories, telephoned to tell me that she's starting a magazine to be called "The Craig Rice Crime Digest." She'll bring it out now every other month, but later hopes to make it a month to month affair. She's leaving for New York to arrange with the publishers to buy crime stories. The magazine will have condensations of the four best crime thriller-dillers. Those of us who loooove these mystery stories will be reading Craig's magazine with interest. Furthermore, she gets her picture on the cover of one of the most important periodicals.

THE "BLOOD AND GUTS" story, I hear from a very reliable source, is actually the story of Gen. Patton's life. Republic is supposed to have plunked down $150,000 for the film rights. Well, that's not too much money to pay for the colorful career of the general to whom life was never monotonous and always full of surprises, to say nothing of his bravery as one of our greatest soldiers.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Kitty Spiegel and Mervyn Le Roy have set Feb. 1 as their wedding date. Merv, 'tis said, has a smash hit with Claudette Colbert in "Without Reservations"; Bramwell Fletcher, Diana Barrymore's husband, arrived to visit her—so that should still the gossips. They left for Carmel to see her mother, the famous Michael Strange; Eddie Lasker, who was recently divorced by pretty Carol Gimbel, dining with the so attractive Shirley Paterson and her family; J. D. Gortatowsky, Hearst executive, at dinner with the Mark Hellingers and a party of friends. He is here to get some of our grand sunshine; Olivia de Havilland, who was with Joe McKeon the same night, had a long talk with Msgr. John Hagerty. He was the dinner guest of Fr. Thomas English, who also entertained Bishop Gilmore of Montana and Fr. Michael English.

MARY LOU DIX and her bridegroom, Bud Wolfe, have a date with the stork. Mary Lou revealed they were first married last March in Mexico and were remarried here a few months ago; Bud and Betty Furness are moving to California to make their home; Barbara Hale, who is expected to wed Bill Williams soon, has just bought herself a ranch; Velez and Yolanda, who just welcomed their third child, leave soon on a concert tour. What a wonderful couple and what a credit to their profession. For my money they are tops as dancers. That's all today.

MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 24—Mr. Joseph P. Kennedy, our former ambassador to the Court of St. Jackson's—I mean the Court of St. James'—has picked up a few trinkets in his travels, such as a couple of skyscrapers, a brace of movie studios, and a racetrack or two.

He is currently the owner of a horse plant called Hialeah, which has been described by some wag as Alcatraz with flamingoes.

Being the proprietor of the joint, Mr. Kennedy had a place to sit down on opening day last week, which is more than can be said for most of the customers, although the horses I bet on certainly took their ease. But Mr. Kennedy seemingly could not remain seated.

He was forever jumping up and running off somewhere. This started a rumor that he was contacting Winston Churchill, who is resting down here in the shade of a large cigar, with the idea of forming a new government in exile.

AFTER MR. KENNEDY had returned from one of his mysterious missions, I crept toward his box, making sure to keep to the windward so he would not detect me until too late. He tried to get away but I had him cornered.

"What is significant or an indication of the times?" I said, this being the customary greeting I reserve for former ambassadors.

"I am delighted to see you," he said, scowling with joy. "And I am glad you asked me that question. A very definite indication of the times has just manifested itself."

"We are not releasing this to the press," continued Mr. Kennedy, "but I understand nobody reads you so it is safe to remain a secret. The exercise boys have just threatened to go out on strike!"

"The exercise boys what do they do?"

"They exercise horses," said Mr. Kennedy. "Racehorses need plenty of exercise—and if you are thinking of asking if they squat on their haunches and do setting up exercises I will thank you to skip it."

I TOLD Mr. Kennedy I thought they did it with dumbbells. But I did not like the look on his face and hastened to ask what, the exercise boys were demanding.

"I have not been able to get that clear," he replied. "We have been holding management-labor conferences back of the stables but they have been fraught with confusion. We keep getting interrupted by the bugle and, naturally, we all have to go out and watch the race. Exercise boys," he added, "are very fond of watching races."

At this point I discovered Mr. Kennedy had a guest in his box. The discovery was not difficult because the guest began talking. On closer inspection he turned out to be Mr. Joe E. Lewis, the comedian.

"I think I know what the exercise boys are after," said Mr. Lewis. "Their demands are modest. They just want a piece of every owner!"

Mr. Kennedy looked surprised, saying he had not understood that.

"Yes," continued Mr. Lewis, "and they would like a few other simple things—minor adjustments really. They would like two days a week off to go to the beach and a suite of rooms."

Mr. Kennedy said he had not understood that either. Apparently getting the idea that Mr. Lewis was in some way representing the exercise boys he asked if they had any further demands.

"Naturally," said Mr. Lewis. "What do you think they are—pikers? They've been reading the labor news too, and they know this is no time to be modest in making demands. After all, what's good enough for General Motors and Western Electric employes is good enough for them."

"For heaven's sake," gasped Mr. Kennedy, "what else do they want?"

"Just the bare necessities" said Mr. Lewis. "They want a grazing room on the town going back."

AT THIS WRITING neither Mr. Kennedy nor I have succeeded in learning just what it is the stable boys are asking.

LATE IN THE DAY I asked Mr. Kennedy if the exercise boys had walked out yet.

"No," he said, "but we are to hold further conferences. In the meantime, we are trying to get them to agree to a 10-year cooling off period."

Boston After Dark

CHATTER (or Yackety-Yak): The Duke of Marlborough, resplendent in his Persian lamb coat and carrying his monogrammed umbrella, is en route for Florida where another Marlborough, Winston Churchill, is enjoying the sun and stuff . . . Bill Corum of the Journal-American calls Florida, incidentally, the "land of the itching palm."

THE MOST quoted current gag in New York concerns "The Lost Weekend," the picture about a drunk . . . The quip is attributed to Dick Flanagan, boss of Monte Carlo, who accompanied a confirmed inebriate to see "Lost Weekend" with an idea of making a convert to sobriety. "My friend was impressed deeply," says Mr. Flanagan . . . "After sitting through the picture to the bitter end, he made a resolution never to see a movie again."

The same much-discussed fillum affects different persons variously . . . William Cahn, the young theatrical producer, took Henry Nadel, the comedian from Boston, to see the movie, which won Ray Milland an Academy Award and won Jane Wyman the right to star on her own . . . According to Mr. Cahn, Comic Nadel got the shakes just watching the performance.

Minutes before the final closeup, Nadel had rushed Cahn out of the theater . . . "I can't take it another minute," the comedian declared. "I've got to have a drink."

PRODUCER CAHN—who hails from Malden—has completed casting "I Like It Here," a play by A. B. Shiffrin, which Boston will see Feb. 21 . . . Bert Lytell, former president of Equity and seen recently in "The Wind Is Ninety," has just been signed to co-star with Oscar Karlweis, who made such a hit in "Jacobowsky and the Colonel" . . . Beverly Bayne, who was starred in the silents with Francis X. Bushman, is another member of the cast . . . So is Bill Terry, the promising youngster of "Stage Door Canteen."

TONI EDEN, who is Walda Eileen Winchell (daughter of W. W.) in private life, is being considered for Dick Kollmar's new musical, "Windy City." (It was titled "Danny Boy" originally) . . . Some newspaper "trade" interest is attached thereto . . . Mr. Kollmar's wife is Dorothy Kilgallen, the Broadway columnist whom many regard as the closest rival to Miss Eden's famous daddy in chronicling the events of Broadway and environs (including Hollywood) . . . (Boston saw beautiful young Toni in the ingenue lead of "Devils Galore," an early season production which didn't last.)

"HARVEY," the hit-comedy which was opened in Boston, begins to resemble a star-proof vehicle . . . When the Brock Pemberton production by Mary Chase bowled over Boston and New York in quick succession—these being the only cities to see the original company to date—critics and public alike were so thrilled by Frank Fay's performance that they viewed with alarm any prospect of the play being staged at a future date without the inspired services of Mr. Fay.

BUT WORD comes now from California that Joe E. Brown, the actor with a chasm for a mouth, is the rave of San Francisco.

IN THE FIRST week of Joe E. Brown in "Harvey," records at the Geary Theater which had been held by Helen Hayes in "Harriet" went by the boards, and $27,500 was passed through the box-office . . . San Francisco is a two-week "stand" normally . . . Now they are predicting that "Harvey" will be lodged at the Geary until the Spring . . . The Wesson Brothers (from Cambridge) are a tremendous hit at the Embassy (formerly the Rio Rumba) Club . . . Mitzi Green's class as an all-around entertainer has closed the gap in "Billion Dollar Baby" between Mitzi's role, a comparatively minor one, and the female leading part played by smart little Joan McCracken . . . New Yorkers are talking about Mitzi now in the same breath they devote to Miss McCracken . . . Benay Venuta "stole" the "Nellie Bly" first-night from Wm. Gaxton and V. Moore.

Frank McCarthy, former George Abbott press agent who became Assistant Secretary of State, is returning to the flack ranks with his own organization . . . Those frantic MCA huddles concern Larry Finley, the ballroom promoter, who is suing the outfit for $3,000,000 . . . John Conte and Marylin Maxwell are together again (Reely, the suspense!) . . . Lois Andrews Street hit Gotham over the week-end simultaneously with her ex-husband, George Jessel . . . Eugene List, the pianist who played for Truman and Stalin, will become a civilian this week . . . Dick Reynolds has imported a yacht to make Marianne O'Brien happier in Florida . . . Tommy Chatfield, who came to N. Y. from California by motorcycle in connection with the Pardo divorce case, left the shiny Wild West vehicle at the curb when he checked in at the Capitol Hotel—and hasn't seen it since . . . The Metropolitan Opera's ballet dolls are furious with the management. They claim two-thirds of them have been ill with colds, flu, grippe, etc., recently because there's no room for them to rest in between daily rehearsals and evening performances . . . Slope Without Tow Offers Good Skiing

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

If Ol' Man Weather smiles on skiers today and tomorrow, providing rising temperatures and plenty of sunshine—with no rain—local skiing should be excellent this week-end. Suburban slopes that had a heavy crust will then be covered with granular, corny snow, and thousands will enjoy some backyard schussing.

Skiing on a sun-soaked slope at Groton yesterday, near the Country Club, we found that a hill devoid of a tow still offers good sport, as well as the best spot to get those legs and shoulders into top shape. A light, egg shell crust existed when we first donned our hickories, but after a bit of strenuous sidestepping, this layer was transformed into a granular and powder combination, which made fast running.

Only three-quarters of an hour drive from Boston, this terrain has unlimited possibilities. The long, steep grade in back of the clubhouse is serviced by a rope tow, operated on week-ends, while another hoist has been installed, and Dana Sherlaw hopes it may roll this season.

Many families head for Groton on week-ends, and tots as young as four and five years old ski with safety here. The boys from nearby academies also work out on the hills.

In this same vicinity is Brownloaf, with a sporty and sharp pitch. This hill does not have a tow, and therefore is never crowded. With the big schuss centers resembling log jams every Saturday and Sunday, many may return to the old style of "climbing up and skiing down!" It's great fun!

SKI SCRIBBLINGS: The races for servicemen, scheduled to be held on Cannon Mountain's Taft Trail this week-end, have been cancelled, due to lack of base on the lower schusses . . . Send your entries for the Walter Foley Memorial Race to this writer. It's open to unclassified skiers, with three trophies in the men's and women's divisions, and will be run on the Mittersill Slope, Franconia, N. H., Feb. 16 and 17.

The Worcester Ski Club is sponsoring the Mass. Junior Downhill and Slalom championships, Saturday and Sunday, on Mt. Wachusett, Princeton. There will be three classes: advanced juniors, 14-15; intermediate juniors, 12-13; and primary juniors, under 11. Awards will be presented for the first five places in each event. From youngsters such as these will come America's future ski champs!

Speedy Hub-Chicago Air Service to Start

New and faster Boston to Chicago airline service will be inaugurated Jan. 30, Ralph Damon, president of American Airlines, said today in announcing that at that time his airline is putting into operation the first of a new fleet of DC-4 Flagships.

Two round trips via New York will be made each day by the planes which have 44 to 55-passenger capacity. Mail and air express will also be carried. Planes will leave Boston at 5:25 a. m. and 2:15 p. m., arriving in Chicago at 11 a. m. and 5 p. m.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I was discharged from the Navy Nov. 25, and failed to send in my December payment of $6.45 for National Service Life Insurance. Can I still save my policy from lapsing if I send it now? J. W. R., Cambridge.

A—If your insurance payment was due Dec. 1, the policy has lapsed and will require reinstatement. This may be done by applying to Veterans Bureau, 17 Court st., Boston. If payment was due Dec. 31, you are allowed 30-day grace period, in which case payment must be made by Jan. 31.

Q—My husband was discharged from the Navy, Aug. 9, 1945. Am I entitled to an allotment check for that month? If so, to whom do I write? C. T. C., Gloucester

A—Final check should have been received first of month following discharge. Write Bureau of Records and Supply, Cleveland, O.

Q—What is the story on Quonset huts? Can a sailor who has shore duty get one for himself and family? Can they be moved to land that is owned by serviceman? T. H., Hampton, N. H.

A—First of all you must be honorably discharged from service in order to purchase government surplus property. Second, all surplus Quonset huts have been turned over to Federal Housing authorities and city and town governments are given priority. The balance, if any, will be offered to veterans under GI Bill.

Q—Will you please tell me if I am entitled to $300 bonus for veterans? I was inducted into Army Sept. 16, 1940, and discharged in April, 1941. E. S., Arlington.

A—Don't know what you mean by $300 bonus. If you have in mind state bonus, amount is $100. You are entitled to that.

Q—Do you have any information when 884th Ord. H. A. M. Co is returning to the States? My son-in-law has been overseas a long time and has 50 points. My daughter is ill and worried about when he is coming home. R. M., Everett.

A—Under present shipping lists I fail to find company you inquire about. Names of units aboard a great number of ships are not stated, and due to present confusion of redeployment of troops, War Dept. is unable to state definitely when various units are returning.

(Ed. Note: The same answer is aplicable to question submitted by R. D., East Boston, regarding brother in India.)

Q—I am interested in taking up marine engineering under the GI Bill. Where would I get information on what schools available in Boston, also details of learn-while-you-earn program? E. W., Roxbury.

A—Such information may be obtained at State Dept. of Education, 200 Newbury st., Boston (Veterans Information).

Q—I received a blue discharge from the WAC for concealment of a child. I am now told that legislation has been enacted which would grant me an honorable discharge. Would I be entitled to mustering-out pay and state bonus? Will they send honorable discharge to me, also will I be reimbursed for the month's pay taken away from me? L. C., Boston.

A—Under the GI Bill you have the right to ask for a review of your case and apply for honorable discharge. You must file application for a review by War Dept. Such forms may be obtained at First Service Command Headquarters (Personal Affairs Branch), 808 Commonwealth ave., Boston. If honorable discharge is granted you will receive mustering-out pay.

SPECIAL-SITUATION STOCKS
To Benefit From Huge Earnings Gains In 1946

You now have an outstanding opportunity to capitalize on 30 strong companies which appear headed for share profits ABOUT DOUBLE those of 1945!

Yet their stocks are still priced below 10 times estimated average earnings.

At their market highs within the prewar years 1936-1939, these stocks sold at an average of about 15 times best annual earnings of that period. If that ratio were duplicated on the earnings which we anticipate for the current year, the indicated potentiality is a further average price rise of over 75%.

Dividends paid last year averaged $1.36 a share and approximated 65% of earnings. At no higher ratio of distributions, estimated 1946 earnings might yield dividends averaging as much as $3.30 a share.

RULES, 'TIS SAID, are made to be broken . . . but the reducer is committed to a period of denials. She's not the exception to the rule of rules. For her, every day of dogged, hard, persistent perseverance after the acquisition of nature's choice gift . . . the body beautiful.

So "the dolly with the hole in her stocking" is still a dolly . . . but the gal with the ponderous paunch and dipping derriere and billowy "bosoom" is no gravy for any man's dish . . . even though she may be quick on the uptake of repartee or double-talk.

Oh, I'm not unmindful of the task that lies ahead for the woman with an ill-fated figure. I know the sacrifices that must be made. But what's worth having . . . what's worth envying in others . . . is worth hoseying for ourselves. And, I know, too, from experience how meritoriously the end justifies the means. Get thee behind me, demon weight!

If you're healthy, happy and heavy . . . and you like what you see in the mirror . . . and honestly and unflinchingly label what you see "that's for me" . . . far be it from little me to take you out of your dream-world. If you're blithe and cheerful about your heftiness . . . when the avoirdupois is not due to glandular or organic causes . . . O. K., sister, it's all yours. And you can have it.

I'm dealing exclusively with the women who like what they see on the screen and in the glamor-fashion magazines . . . and who want what they see and are willing to go after it. If you're tall, you don't have to be an Amazon. If you're short . . . you don't have to be dumpy. But, if you're well-proportioned . . . and your weight is sliced-to-height and age . . . if you're a keen and smooth eyeful from head to toe . . . you've got really all that matters . . . a figure to smarten up the clothes you wear. And the chic-clothes-horse pays off, win, place and show, in romance.

So here we go, reducers, with 10 commandments.

Rule 1—Thou shalt not wilt in determination and grit and intestinal fortitude against the desire to win.

Rule 2—Thou shalt not skip breakfast, nibble at luncheon and eat heartily at dinner . . . but eat three well-balanced "reducing" meals a day. And no in-between-meal calories.

Rule 3—Thou shalt not snitch at night when lights are turned down low and you're about to sleep. A stomach empty at bedtime induces slimming while you are sleeping.

Rule 4—Thou shalt not eat fast. Haste makes plenty of waist-line. A hurried swallow is an invitation to more food.

Rule 5—Thou shalt not drink! Alcohol at no time during the reducing period . . . and water only between meals . . . and plenty of aqua pura.

Rule 6—Thou shalt not make sunshine with the sugar pot nor with the salt-sprinkler. Unless you spare them both . . . you'll spoil the intent of your ambition.

Rule 7—Thou shalt not weaken your will power or end your enthusiasm for dieting by keeping late hours. You must get eight hours or more of sleep to perpetuate the pep and vitalize the verve.

Rule 8—Thou shalt not eat the fatty trimmings of meat. Even though they are tasty they are touchy in the system.

Rule 9—Thou shalt not eat fats, concentrated sweets and starches if you want to get slim. Train the temper to take it easy with these weight-wishers.

Rule 10—Thou shalt not omit fruits from your diet. Defective teeth and bones lie in the wake of a serious lack of vitamin C in the body.

In tomorrow's Boston Evening American we'll explain the importance of vitamins, and their presence in foods.

Thursday, Jan. 24, 1946

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You are an individual who is generally free from prejudice; modest and unassuming. You do a lot of thinking by yourself, sometimes too much; talk more with loved ones, friends. Should have equable temper, but are at times headstrong, self-willed. Aquarians can adapt themselves easily to changed environment. Combine religion with your logical mind and you will gain great goals. Birthdate of: Charles James Fox, noted British statesman.

This Lipstick Just Right For Make-Up Perfection

WE'VE MADE MUCH of the "right look" and we think we know what we've been talking about. After all . . . with plenty of dates . . . men and gay social events cramming your once-empty calendar . . . it's time to achieve that right look . . . so important in these highly competitive romantic days.

We're assuming that you're creaming and keeping your complexion from being coarsened by that whimsical gentleman of cold winds . . . "Old Jack Frost" . . . but equally necessary is the application of the right lipstick color and rouge to help make you superlatively lovely.

We all know that lipstick completes the ensemble of make-up . . . the distinctive item without which no girl could practically live and be happy . . . but it's only when it's the right color for you and applied properly do the kissables look like they're supposed to.

It's provocative . . . not Ubangi lips . . . a girl wants and should create. So . . . if you would look right . . . select your lipstick carefully and thoughtfully. One of the nicest all-around colors we've seen is a clear, true red lipstick . . . the color which women always seem to be crying for. It's creamy and smooth . . . and gives a satiny sheen to the lips . . . a must in a good lipstick for there's no denying the youthfulness of moist looking lips.

For the name of this just-right, clear true red lipstick, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write Ruth Muggleebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Chicken Steaks Among New Treats for Family

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

COME MEAT STRIKES or shortages of meat through other causes, we can still be sure of delicious chicken meals with all the poultry in the market. It won't be necessary to reserve chicken for company dinner for the whole family can enjoy it to their heart's content.

In many ways chicken is cheaper than some other meats, and, of course, is good to the last spoonful of soup which usually finishes it. At least one serving of lean meat each day is a nutritional requirement, and chicken is so easily digested that it can be served to every member of the family whether young or old.

Chicken doesn't always have to be roasted, broiled, or fried. Older birds may be simmered over direct heat, or cooked in a casserole until tender, then served in any of the dishes you may prefer. One nice thing about leftover chicken is the number of dishes that can be extended over several meals.

There are chicken steaks, which may be new to some of you; and chicken pie topped with flaky crust, batter, or even toast; and deep-sea chicken, being the idea of a sea-going cook—just to mention a few.

CHICKEN STEAKS

2 cups minced cooked chicken
¼ cup chopped canned pimiento
1 small can mushrooms
½ tsp. onion juice
1½ cups bread crumbs
2 tbsp. butter, margarine or chicken fat
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup milk ½ tsp. salt
Few grains pepper
2 tbsp. fat for frying

Combine all ingredients (1-3 cup fresh mushrooms sauteed may be used instead of canned ones), except fat for frying, and form into individual steaks or patties. Dust with flour and pan-fry in hot fat until golden brown on both sides. Arrange steaks on platter and garnish with parsley and radishes. Makes enough for 6 servings.

DEEP SEA CHICKEN

1 chicken 1 diced onion
3 cups chicken broth
½ lb. mushrooms
1 diced carrot 1 diced parsnip
1 tbsp. capers
1 tsp. cornstarch
1 tbsp. brandy or dry white wine

Joint chicken as for fricassee. Butter pieces; roll in flour, brown in oven. Fry onion, carrot, and parsnips in butter for 20 minutes. Place chicken in stewpan with vegetables; liver finely chopped; salt; pepper; capers and broth. Simmer 45 minutes, very gently, then add mushrooms, sliced thick and continue cooking 15 minutes more. Arrange chicken on hot platter. Thicken gravy with cornstarch; let boil up, and add brandy or wine. Pour over chicken and serve in a ring of hot boiled rice or macaroni.

CHICKEN TERRAPIN

3 cups diced cooked chicken
¼ cup chicken stock
1 cup thick white sauce
¼ cup sherry
Buttered hot toast
1 hard-cooked egg

Simmer chicken, covered, in broth about 10 minutes, then add to white sauce; gradually stir in sherry, add grated egg yolk and simmer 5 minutes. Serve on toast and garnish with diced egg white. Makes about 6 servings.

CREAMED CHICKEN EN CASSEROLE

2½ cups sliced cooked chicken
2 tbsp. chopped pimiento
3 cups thin white sauce
½ cup bread crumbs, buttered
Steamed or cooked broccoli
Grated cheese

Add chicken and pimiento to white sauce and bring to a boil; turn into greased casserole, sprinkle with ¼ cup crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 15 minutes; place broccoli on top, sprinkle with grated cheese and remaining ¼ cup crumbs, and continue baking 10 minutes, or until browned. Makes 6 servings.

BOLD AND COLORFUL prints . . . keynote to the Foxbrownie spring collection . . . are artistically manipulated to make this very striking afternoon frock. Twin scarf-panniers and a draw-string neckline bodice of colorfully printed silk and combined with black crepe to highlight the new silhouette—R. M.

Stepmother Trouble

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: 1—My parents have been divorced for a number of years. Recently my father married again. How would I introduce his wife to my friends? I am married. Would it be proper for me to call her my stepmother?

2—And what about my child? Should I teach him to call her "Grandmother"?

R. M. L.

1—Since your own mother is still living, it is correct for you to refer to and to introduce your father's new wife as your "stepmother." This, quite simply and plainly, explains her status to everyone. An excellent form of introduction is: "Mrs. Smith, I should like to have you meet my stepmother." Also, since your surname differs from your father's, there will undoubtedly be some occasions when you should add your stepmother's name in your introductions, ". . . my stepmother, Mrs. Robinson." For example when you are introducing to your stepmother a man who does not know your father, you might say, "This is my stepmother, Mrs. Robinson—Mr. Bradley."

2—This is such a personal question . . . to you, your father and stepmother, and particularly, I should think, to your mother. I can well understand that your mother may not welcome having your child call your stepmother "Grandmother", the beloved name that rightfully belongs to your mother. Also, I doubt that your father and his wife would be too enthusiastic about this. A possible suggestion is that your child call your stepmother "Aunt Mary" or "Auntie", or, best of all perhaps, by some nickname she may have and which may suitably be adopted by your child.

Ex-Ice Champ Here

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. PHILIP SPALDING, JR., of Honolulu, who was better known around here in the late 1930's as Joan Tozzer, national women's skating champion, is home for her first visit since before Pearl Harbor. She is visiting her parents, Prof. and Mrs. Alfred M. Tozzer of Cambridge, until the middle of February.

Joan and Phil were married in Honolulu in 1940 after a romance that began when she went out to the islands to visit her grandmother, Mrs. George P. Castle. The tropical climes are wonderful for the tourist trade but don't produce much ice for skating so Joan settled down to the happy and contented existence of wife and mother and put her skating togs in moth balls until her present visit to New England.

Mrs. Robert Watson

THOUGH SHE THINKS she is pretty rusty in the graceful figures that won her national titles she might possibly be induced to give an exhibition Sunday afternoon when her friends are giving a tea for her at the Skating Club of Boston.

Charles M. Rotch, president of the club, heads the group of hosts and hostesses who include Mrs. George R. Blodgett, Mrs. John A. Sargent, Mrs. Frank D. Harrington and Mrs. Eric G. Benedict.

Joan's mother and Mrs. William V. Ellis will be the pourers. There will be exhibition skating by Betsy Lyons, Jo Barnum, Dudley Richards, Hugh Nawn, Jr., and Ferris Norris. Among the many guests will be another former national champion, Polly Blodgett Watson, and her husband, Lt Robert Watson; Maribel Vinson Owens of Winchester, also a former national champion; Jimmy Madden, Dorothy and Leslie Glazier, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Frick, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Guild, Mr. and Mrs. Stacy Nickerson, Mr. and Mrs. Scott H. Wells, Betsy Nichols and Peggy Harrington.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD M. GALLAGHER, JR., postponed the celebration of their third wedding anniversary yesterday because Eddie is ill with the flu. Prilla Phelan Gallagher, wearing a beautiful orchid corsage on a soft yellow wool dress, attended the Morning Musicale and had lunch afterward with her sister, Mrs. Paul Lyons, who is here from New York to be a bridesmaid at Jean Evatt's wedding Saturday.

Gayest hat at the Musicale was the sailor made of pastel carnations and roses which Mrs. Paul Clark wore with her mink coat. She and Mrs. Frank G. Allen entertained Lady Walwyn of England as their concert guest. Another attractive English guest was Mrs. John Balfour, wife of a British statesman, who wore a slim black wool suit and high crowned black hat as she sat with her hostess, Mrs. Frank H. Stewart.

Mrs. H. Hayward Sanders sported a modish Monty beret trimmed with a jewel clip and Mrs. Walter Powers a dashing wide brimmed felt of rosy red above a silky black caracul coat. Other fashionable music lovers were Mrs. William C. Cox, Mrs. Winthrop Jameson, Mrs. George Draper, Mrs. Homer Albers, Mrs. William Emerson Barrett, Mrs. Robert C. Terry, Mrs. John Sluder, Mrs. Robert Moore and Mrs. T. Desmond Butler (Dorothy West), accompanied by her husband, a major in the British army.

Lawley Shipyard Out of Business

The George Lawley & Son Corp., yacht builders for four generations which turned out fighting ships in two World Wars, is in process of liquidation.

Edward D. Whiting, president and general manager, announced today the plant, which during World War II increased its facilities 500 per cent, is to be sold.

Peacetime facilities had been eliminated and reconversion of the plant on the Neponset river was not possible, Whiting said. During the war 296 fighting ships were built. Some 4800 workers were employed.

Colonel Cedes Rank To Become Sergeant

JUNCTION CITY, Kan., Jan. 24 (AP)—Col. Ralph Shannon will exchange his silver eagles for the stripes of a master sergeant at Ft. Riley Monday.

Shannon, a reserve officer, has waived his privilege to apply for a regular Army commission in order to get back into the ranks where he spent most of his 25 years of Army life.

2 Men, Woman Dead in Homes

Stricken in their widely separate homes, two men and a woman were found dead today within a few hours of each other.

Miss Mary Harney, 57, of Park dr., Bac kBay, was found dead when a janitor noticed she had not taken in her newspapers or milk.

The body of Joseph P. McAvoy, 39, of Concord st., Charlestown, was found in his home by his brother, John J. McAvoy. Natural causes were given as the reason for both deaths.

Martin Trawinsko was found dead in his Woodward st., South Boston, rooming house. Cause of death awaited the medical examiner's report.

CALAVO

Enjoy it tonight

Cut a Calavo into circles, cutting against the seed; twist lightly to loosen from seed. Cut circles into halves. Remove skin. Sprinkle with grapefruit or lime juice and salt. Arrange alternately with grapefruit sections, free of all white membrane. Serve dressing separately. Insist on Calavo (T. M. Reg.) for California's finest avocados.

'Marie Louise' at Exeter 3 More Days

"Marie Louise," the excellent new Swiss film at the Exeter St. Theater, will remain through Saturday on that screen, together with the second run "Dear Octopus," starring Margaret Lockwood and Michael Wilding.

It's 'Stork Club' Time At Scollay, Olympia

Betty Hutton and Barry Fitzgerald, and their chucklesome shenanigans are the answer to the boxoffice business being done by Paramount's musical romance, "The Stork Club," which is now to be seen on the Wash St. Olympia and Scollay screens. And there are laughs, too, in the companion feature, "Life With Blondie," with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake.

Ginger Rogers Gets Dolly Madison Role

Ginger Rogers is to be starred as Dolly Madison, the wife of President James Madison, in the proposed film, "The Magnificent Doll," which Jack H. Skirball and Bruce Manning are to produce independently for Universal release. The picture is planned for summer production.

TECHNICOLORFUL WESTERN—"San Antonio," which teams Alexis Smith and the swashbuckling Errol Flynn, moves to Paramount and Fenway screens today for a week's fun.

'Little Brown Jug' for Copley

"Little Brown Jug," with Percy Kilbride heading the cast of the new play by Marie Baumer, opens at the Copley Theater on Thursday night, Feb. 14. Another important role will be played by Arthur Margetson, recently seen in the Broadway long-time hit, "Life With Father."

Courtney Burr, producer of the fabulously successful "Sailor, Beware," is the sponsor. Gerald Savory, well-known actor and director, is staging the play which will have settings by Frederick Fox.

Bert Lytell, not seen here since last summer when he and Blanche Yurka co-starred in "The Wind Is Ninety," returns in "I Like It Here," William Caha's production of the new A. B. Shiffrin comedy, which opens at the Wilbur Theater on Feb. 18. Oscar Karlweis is starred.

Lytell, who is president of Actors' Equity, has spent most of the past three years as master of ceremonies of the network program, "Stage Door Canteen."

Poetry Party

TOKYO, Jan. 24 (AP)—Only a third the usual number of poems was submitted at the annual imperial poetry party today.

"Snow on the Pine" was the theme. Emperor Hirohito's offering read:

"Man should be like the manly pine that does not change its color though bearing the fallen ——."

acres as part of a UNO site. It is shocked to learn that, without its consent, the rolling meadows, water jumps and hunt hazards where generations of red-coated horse society have tallyhoed behind pedigreed hounds, might be swallowed up, including the surrounding estates of its members whose lines have lived Pickwickesque lives since Paul Revere's day.

Tuesday the club lent its hallowed hall for a "welcome luncheon" to the UNO house-hunting committee, never suspecting that this might be a prelude to its death. A nice salad lunch with wafer thin sandwiches was served and everybody stood around saying such things as are kept on the tip of the tongue for such occasions. Then somebody asked Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic, the UNO leader, where the border of this UNO site began. He waved his arms vaguely on the pretty vista and said: "Right here."

You could have bowled the Myopia people over with a goose egg. Consternation reared its horns. Reaction was a refined version of "Wot T'ell." After a blink of surprise President John A. Tuckerman rallied his intellect to ask, "Who made THAT suggestion?" Nobody seemed to know, except that it must have originated with the local real estate boosters.

A marked frost enveloped the gathering. Mr. Tuckerman left! Presently the UNO committee buckled its galoshes and left too The meeting was adjourned sine die, as they say when there isn't any more to talk about.

Rally Round Boys

VETERANS WHO WERE thwarted in getting trucker's permits from the Public Utilities, paste this date in your bonnets. On Jan. 30 at 10:30 a. m., in Room 460, at the State House a legislative hearing will be held on House Bill No. 406.

This bill, sponsored by Rep. John Carroll following revelations in this column, would allow veterans who can prove responsibility and bona fide intention, to get truck permits at the legal fee of $10 instead of having to buy them from previous possessors at prices ranging from $600 to $1000. There will be active opposition from monopoly-minded truck concerns who don't welcome competition. So be there and state your case.

STRIKE PROBLEM — During the last week this corner has been visited by numbers of veterans who complain that they barely shed their uniforms and went to work for Lynn G. E. before the union struck them off the job. Now they find themselves squeezed between union dictates and the ruling of the Veterans Administration that no striking veteran is eligible for unemployment compensation. So they're broke, confused and accuse somebody, without knowing exactly who, of giving them a bum deal.

SOUTHERN COMFORT — An annoyed New England veteran mails in a hallucinated hunk of editorial hooey from the Times Dispatch of Richmond, Va. It's a half-page feature entitled "GI Joe is NO Goodwill Ambassador, Though Southern Soldiers are Exceptions" and goes on to scandalize the Northern AEFer while lauding the Dixie GIs for their respective relations with foreign peoples.

Here is a curious specimen of the "dam-Yankee" type which gives Northern soldiers a black character while depicting Southern boys as military Fauntleroys and sums up in the final paragraph, "The South may well be proud that its sons are known the world over . . . for instinctive good manners. Unfortunately, in World War II, as in an earlier conflict, the South was outnumbered and now the word 'Yankee,' which is all inclusive when a foreigner uses it, has become a synonym for bad manners."

LAND SAKES! I thought that Civil War was over! As a combat correspondent with many oversea divisions I found there was no difference in the over-all behavior of our soldiers regardless of what corner of our national crazy quilt they came from. They all had regional pride, but were mutually bound by a brotherhood that held no trace of geographical animosities. Among the little good that came out of this war, in which our divisions were decentralized and mixed like a vast human chop suey, was respect the soldiers gained for other areas of this great sprawling nation. No section had a monopoly on either the sterling core of American youth or the uncouth misbehaviors of a minority. Face the wall, Dudley Smith, Jr.!

APOLOGIA—This pillar of cracker barrel philosophy is strictly a one-man shop. I have no lipstick lovely to take dictation, hence am woefully in arrears with correspondence which is stacked waist high on my desk. I plead for patience and promise those who are wondering at my "negligence" that, if humanly possible, I will try to catch up to evens before leaving early in February for another European visit.

FOURTH ARMOR PERSONAL —To the fistful of enquiries from local Fourth Armor alumni aiming to organize a postwar chapter, why not contact Pat Hanlon at 6 Park Street pl., Arlington, or John A. Morris of 6 Lake st., Natick. One starting point is as good as another and, from the writer's records, gathered while with the division from Octendung to Chemnitz, there are several hundred Fourth Armor veterans in Greater Boston. I have perhaps 50 or more names and addresses.

HIGGINS' LAST WORD—Letters, some sincere, some snide, ask what has become of the Higgins-to-Hingham project launched by the writer last November. One such, with a Hingham postmark, reads: "So you started something you couldn't finish?"

Not so! The Higgins deal is still very much alive. The writer has been in constant contact and just this moment hung up the telephone, after making a Boston date with Andrew J. Sr. for next March. He had written, "I give you my definite promise that I will come there, if not in late February, by the middle of March. I expect to have definite announcement regarding the new type building material (Thermo Namel) which I believe could be competitively manufactured in New England."

If Hingham, which is hobbled by residential zoning laws, isn't interested in obtaining new enterprise and job-opportunities, some other Greater Boston locality will be. Selah!

Free Scoring Certain In H. C.-R. I. Hoop Duel

By HERB FINNEGAN

This is DER TAG. This is the day that basketball plays before its first full house in Boston (13,900). This is the day (or night) that Holy Cross meets Rhode Island State in the Garden in the first game of a twin bill that finds Boston College in the afterpiece.

Who'll win between H. C. and R. I. State?

"Holy Cross," said Al McCoy. "H. C. controls the ball and any team that can control the ball can whip R. I. St. John's did it. H. C. can do it."

"Rhode Island State by 10 points," said Foxy Flumere, coach of the pro Good-Wins and former coach at Northeastern. "I've played Keaney's clubs plenty of times, and I know his style. If he gets H. C. playing his way, they'll go berserk and never catch up."

"Wish I knew," smiled Harvard Coach Floyd Stahl.

"It's a toss-up," said Tech Coach Henry McCarthy.

Truth of it is, nobody knows. Frank Keaney made basketball in Rhode Island, has been coaching it there for 26 years and knows the game from every angle. He made basketball a high scoring game. Nobody ever heard of a team scoring 100 points a game until Keaney did it.

Doggy Julian is 25 years behind Keaney as far as tenure at HC is concerned. He came to HC only last fall as backfield coach and basketball coach. Nobody probably ever would have heard of either Doggy or the HC five unless they came into Boston Garden.

Once they came in, however, Zing!

It took old-timers like Fiddle Morley, Smokey Kelleher and Arthur Sampson to appreciate basketball as HC played it.

That was no accident, however. Mr. Julian led his last two Muhlenberg fives into the national invitation tournaments in Madison Square Garden. Both coaches are tops, therefore.

But it's not only a test between Keaney and Julian; the players themselves have something to say about it.

277 Exhibition Games For American Teams

CHICAGO, Jan. 24 (AP) — American League baseball clubs will play a record total of 277 exhibition games this spring, with the New York Yankees topping the circuit with 26 on their schedule.

Earl Hilligan, manager of the American League Service Bureau, said last spring the league teams played 94 exhibition games.

Al Wistert Signs 5-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 23 (INS)—Al Wistert, one-time University of Michigan tackle, today had his professional football future sewed up—for five years.

The 215-pound lineman who has been a member of the Philadelphia Eagles Club since 1943 signed yesterday for five years.

Karl Rohde Returns For 10th Ice Classic

Karl Rohde, the musical master of frosted extravaganzas, will handle the baton for his tenth successive Silver Skates Derby at Boston Garden Sunday afternoon. Having missed only the first Derby (Ed. note—that was held outdoors and no music was used), Rohde has become as mhch a part of the Silver Skates picture as silver voiced announcer Billy Mullins, Police Sgt. George Hunter and Director Ben Levias.

Not only has Rohde handled nine previous Derby classics, but for years he directed the music at the Ice Follies and Ice Capades. These two great ice shows now carry their own director and keymen but Rohde always furnishes the local talent to complete the band at these big affairs.

The Derby has become so important to Rohde that he plans his schedule by meeting all the figure skating stars in advance and checking their music.

Erna Anderson, who is handling this 11th annual edition of the Record-American winter party, expressed great satisfaction over the planning of the musical score for her two numbers.

Proper tempo is vital to figure skating and the stars who light the Derby Sunday are assured of the best in music.

Hoyt Returning To Yale Track

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 24 (AP)—Laurence G. Tighe, acting director of athletics at Yale, announced today that Charles B. Hoyt, on leave of absence for the past three years, would return as head coach of the track on March 1.

Tighe also reported that Frank Ryan, former Columbia star, had been appointed to assist Hoyt.

Yale's cinder path squad will participate in a limited schedule this spring, but will return to a prewar slate in 1947, said Tighe.

100,000,000 garments are desperately needed in the devastated war-torn countries, for babies, children and grownups.

Bedding is needed, too.

Out of our surplus abundance, can any of us afford to be anything but generous?

Jake LaMotta Expects Brother Joey to Win Go

By JACK CONWAY

JAKE LaMOTTA, No. 1 contender for Tony Zale's middleweight title, says that Brother Joey has a chance to stop the skillful Joe Blackwood of Newark in their 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tomorrow night.

"My brother Joey has never looked better than he has in recent workouts," says Jake. "He will force the issue every second he is in the ring and I feel he has a chance to stop Blackwood. Of course I realize Blackwood is a first-class boxer. The fact Blackwood outscored Red Priest proves this statement.

"I have found in my own ring experience that a boxer who keeps busy in the ring and who tosses punches as fast as he can always has a chance to score a kayo."

Johnny Buckley thinks so well of Joey LaMotta's ability that he recently offered $10,000 for his contract only to be turned down. Buckley realizes that with a new boxing boom on its way an active boxer like Joey LaMotta can earn a great deal of money.

Lou Woods of Detroit will also appear on the Garden card. He will have George "Wildcat" Henry of New York as an opponent in a 10-round tussle.

The eight-round semi-final will feature Dave Andrews of Lowell, who has won four bouts since he received his discharge from service, and George LaRover of Philadelphia.

Bill Ryan of Cambridge and Joe Loomis, Dorchester heavyweight, will meet in a four-rounder.

Erna Anderson Stars

MISS ERNA Anderson, Norwegian skater, should be at her best when she stars in a special exhibition in the Silver Skates Derby at the Garden on Sunday afternoon. Miss Anderson has been in Boston since early this week, and she has been busy preparing her program. Those persons who have seen Miss Anderson in her workouts have been amazed at her remarkable ability as a figure skater.

Miss Anderson was formerly a member of the same skating club as Sonja Henie in Norway.

Berger Against Priest

BOBBY BERGER of Chicago will take the place of Maxie Berger of Canada against Al (Red) Priest in a 10-round bout at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on Tuesday night. Berger injured one of his hands in his winning bout with Vince LaSalva and it was necessary for him to withdraw. Berger has boxed in California and in Rhode Island in recent months and has scored his share of wins.

Johnny Priest, brother of Al, will mingle with Joe Polowiter of Hartford in the eight-round semi-final. Polowiter made a good showing against Dave Andrews at the Arena.

In a six-round bout, Jimmy Sauer of Cambridge will oppose Buddy Brown of Boston. The opening four-rounder will feature Frankie Waters of the North End against a suitable opponent.

Caparell Eager To Even Score

Jackie Caparell, Roxbury, is eager to hand Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, a sound thrashing next Monday night at Mechanics Building when they collide in a return bout, one of four 10-round scraps which comprise the weekly Callahan A. C. boxing program.

Sullivan, 171, and Caparell, 164, clashed for the first time last Dec. 17, and when Sullivan was awarded the win unanimously, the fans booed for five minutes.

Other 10-rounders next Monday p. m. will be Schoolboy Jerry Berthieaume, Montreal, heavyweight champion of Canada, vs. undefeated Art Ramsey, Boston; Pat Comiskey, Paterson, N. J., 8th ranking U. S. heavyweight, vs. Dixie Lee Oliver, Washington, D. C., who has whipped Elmer Ray, and John Henry Eskew, Brockton, vs. Montreal Al Evans.

Ex-Orgeon Grid Star Refuses Pro Offers

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 24 (AP)—Jake Leicht, the University of Oregon's All-American halfback, has spiked all talk of his turning professional and has announced he plans "at least one more year of college football at Oregon."

The triple-threater admitted he had been approached by every grid club in the National Professional League and all clubs in the new All-American circuit, excepting the Brooklyn club with which latest rumor linked him.

Brimsek Makes Bs Team to Beat

By BILL GRIMES

During the 3 to 0 victory over Montreal Sunday and the 7 to 1 win over Toronto last night, Frankie Brimsek proved conclusively that he is definitely back in his pre-war form.

With 48 seconds to play, the Leafs were scoreless and a capacity crowd of 13,900 stayed in their seats pulling for "Brimmy" to chalk up his second straight shutout. But then Bill Taylor flipped a shot which appeared to hit someone, and looped into the Boston cage for one of the cheapest goals seen in the Garden in years.

Brimsek's effectiveness for 60 minutes against the Canucks and for 39 minutes and 12 seconds against the Leafs were most praiseworthy feats. Under the current rules, shutouts are rare indeed. Goalies are called upon to break up two and even three-man attacks. This is a new type of hockey for Brimsek. It required some time for him to adjust himself. But now that "Brimmy" is in the groove, the Bruins will be the club to beat for the Stanley Cup.

The Rossmen beat Frank McCool for four goals in the first period, two in the middle stanza and one in the final chapter. With a few more favorable breaks, they'd have made a complete rout of the game.

However, Murray Henderson may be lost to the Bruins for some time. He entered the game with a bad shoulder, and in the first period he aggravated it to such an extent that he was forced to retire for the night. Henderson will be X-rayed today by Dr. Paul Butler. Regardless of what the X-ray plates show, Henderson will not go to Detroit tomorrow with the club. It is feared he has suffered a break of some nature, along with a severe shoulder strain.

When Henderson retired last night, Coach "Dit" Clapper dropped Terry Reardon back on the defense. Reardon turned in a grand performance and with a little time to brush up on defensive play he should become a valuable asset during the games. Henderson is on the hospital list.

Karl Rohde Returns For 10th Ice Classic

Karl Rohde, the musical master of frosted extravaganzas, will handle the baton for his tenth successive Silver Skates Derby at Boston Garden Sunday afternoon. Having missed only the first Derby (Ed. note—that was held outdoors and no music was used), Rohde has become as mhch a part of the Silver Skates picture as silver voiced announcer Billy Mullins, Police Sgt. George Hunter and Director Ben Levias.

Not only has Rohde handled nine previous Derby classics, but for years he directed the music at the Ice Follies and Ice Capades. These two great Ice shows now carry their own director and keymen but Rohde always furnishes the local talent to complete the band at these big affairs.

The Derby has become so important to Rohde that he plans his schedule by meeting all the figure skating stars in advance and checking their music.

Erna Anderson, who is handling this 11th annual edition of the Record-American winter party, expressed great satisfaction over the planning of the musical score for her two numbers.

Proper tempo is vital to figure skating and the stars who light the Derby Sunday are assured of the best in music.

Hoyt Returning To Yale Track

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 24 (AP)—Laurence G. Tighe, acting director of athletics at Yale, announced today that Charles B. Hoyt, on leave of absence for the past three years, would return as head coach of the track on March 1.

Tighe also reported that Frank Ryan, former Columbia star, had been appointed to assist Hoyt.

Yale's cinder path squad will participate in a limited schedule this spring, but will return to a prewar slate in 1947, said Tighe.

Dutch Schultz Seeking Berth

DENVER, Col., Jan. 24 (AP) —Larry (Dutch) Schultz, former football player at Centre College, sent applications for a coaching job to several colleges while awaiting his discharge at Lowry Field, but admitted today that one of them was a mistake. It went to MacMurray College, a girl's school at Jacksonville, Ill.

Victory Clothing Collection for Overseas Relief

Surely every family has something tucked away in closet or attic that will never be needed again—

Suit, overcoat, dress, underwear, hat, shoes . . .

100,000,000 garments are desperately needed in the devastated war-torn countries, for babies, children and grownups.

Bedding is needed, too.

Out of our surplus abundance, can any of us afford to be anything but generous?

Take all you can give to the Collection Depot nearest your home—any school, fire station, police station, post office or church.

Of course, if garments or bedding need mending or cleaning, one naturally will want to see that that is taken care of first.

Jake LaMotta Expects Brother Joey to Win Go

By JACK CONWAY

JAKE LaMOTTA, No. 1 contender for Tony Zale's middleweight title, says that Brother Joey has a chance to stop the skillful Joe Blackwood of Newark in their 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden tomorrow night.

"My brother Joey has never looked better than he has in recent workouts," says Jake. "He will force the issue every second he is in the ring and I feel he has a chance to stop Blackwood. Of course I realize Blackwood is a first-class boxer. The fact Blackwood outscored Red Priest proves this statement.

"I have found in my own ring experience that a boxer who keeps busy in the ring and who tosses punches as fast as he can always has a chance to score a kayo."

Johnny Buckley thinks so well of Joey LaMotta's ability that he recently offered $10,000 for his contract only to be turned down. Buckley realizes that with a new boxing boom on its way an active boxer like Joey LaMotta can earn a great deal of money.

Lou Woods of Detroit will also appear on the Garden card. He will have George "Wildcat" Henry of New York as an opponent in a 10-round tussle.

The eight-round semi-final will feature Dave Andrews of Lowell, who has won four bouts since he received his discharge from service, and George LaRover of Philadelphia.

Bill Ryan of Cambridge and Joe Loomis, Dorchester heavyweight, will meet in a four-rounder.

Erna Anderson Stars

MISS ERNA Anderson, Norwegian skater, should be at her best when she stars in a special exhibition in the Silver Skates Derby at the Garden on Sunday afternoon. Miss Anderson has been in Boston since early this week, and she has been busy preparing her program. Those persons who have seen Miss Anderson in her workouts have been amazed at her remarkable ability as a figure skater.

Miss Anderson was formerly a member of the same skating club as Sonja Henie in Norway.

Berger Against Priest

BOBBY BERGER of Chicago will take the place of Maxie Berger of Canada against Al (Red) Priest in a 10-round bout at a Sharkey A. A. show at the Arena on Tuesday night. Berger injured one of his hands in his winning bout with Vince LaSalva and it was necessary for him to withdraw. Berger has boxed in California and in Rhode Island in recent months and has scored his share of wins.

Johnny Priest, brother of Al, will mingle with Joe Polowiter of Hartford in the eight-round semi-final. Polowiter made a good showing against Dave Andrews at the Arena.

In a six-round bout, Jimmy Sauer of Cambridge will oppose Buddy Brown of Boston. The opening four-rounder will feature Frankie Waters of the North End against a suitable opponent.

Caparell Eager To Even Score

Jackie Caparell, Roxbury, is eager to hand Tommy Sullivan, South Boston, a sound thrashing next Monday night at Mechanics Building when they collide in a return bout, one of four 10-round scraps which comprise the weekly Callahan A. C. boxing program.

Sullivan, 171, and Caparell, 164, clashed for the first time last Dec. 17, and when Sullivan was awarded the win unanimously, the fans booed for five minutes.

Other 10-rounders next Monday p. m. will be Schoolboy Jerry Berthieaume, Montreal, heavyweight champion of Canada, vs. undefeated Art Ramsey, Boston; Pat Comiskey, Paterson, N. J., 8th ranking U. S. heavyweight, vs. Dixie Lee Oliver, Washington, D. C., who has whipped Elmer Ray, and John Henry Eskew, Brockton, vs. Montreal Al Evans.

Ex-Orgeon Grid Star Refuses Pro Offers

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 24 (AP) —Jake Leicht, the University of Oregon's All-American halfback, has spiked all talk of his turning professional and has announced he plans "at least one more year of college football at Oregon."

The triple-threater admitted he had been approached by every grid club in the National Professional League and all clubs in the new All-American circuit, excepting the Brooklyn club with which latest rumor linked him.

Brimsek Makes Bs Team to Beat

By BILL GRIMES

During the 3 to 0 victory over Montreal Sunday and the 7 to 1 win over Toronto last night, Frankie Brimsek proved conclusively that he is definitely back in his pre-war form.

With 48 seconds to play, the Leafs were scoreless and a capacity crowd of 13,900 stayed in their seats pulling for "Brimmy" to chalk up his second straight shutout. But then Bill Taylor flipped a shot which appeared to hit someone, and looped into the Boston cage for one of the cheapest goals seen in the Garden in years.

Brimsek's effectiveness for 60 minutes against the Canucks and for 39 minutes and 12 seconds against the Leafs were most praiseworthy feats. Under the current rules, shutouts are rare indeed. Goalies are called upon to break up two and even three-man attacks. This is a new type of hockey for Brimsek. It required some time for him to adjust himself. But now that "Brimmy" is in the groove, the Bruins will be the club to beat for the Stanley Cup.

The Rossmen beat Frank McCool for four goals in the first period, two in the middle stanza and one in the final chapter. With a few more favorable breaks, they'd have made a complete rout of the game.

However, Murray Henderson may be lost to the Bruins for some time. He entered the game with a bad shoulder, and in the first period he aggravated it to such an extent that he was forced to retire for the night. Henderson will be X-rayed today by Dr. Paul Butler. Regardless of what the X-ray plates show, Henderson will not go to Detroit tomorrow with the club. It is feared he has suffered a break of some nature, along with a severe shoulder strain.

When Henderson retired last night, Coach "Dit" Clapper dropped Terry Reardon back on the defense. Reardon turned in a grand performance and with a little time to brush up on defensive play he should become a valuable asset during the games Henderson is on the hospital list.

DeGlane Meets Singh at Arena

Henri DeGlane of France, one-time heavyweight mat champ, bids for high rating among the current title aspirants tonight when he faces Nanjo Singh of India in the main bout of Paul Bowser's show at the Arena.

In the semifinal, Olaf Olsen, Minneapolis, will attempt to pin the ex-Red Wolf, John Grandovich, with his new "Swedish pretzel." The weekly special will find Johnnie Moocny, U. S. Marine, tangling with the capable Les Ruffins, Lawrence. The opener, at 8:15, will pair Frank Judson, ex-Harvard mat instructor, against Jack Marshall, Colorado.

STORY ON PAGE 3

Operation Ahead—Funds contributed by neighbors are making possible this trip by air of Mrs. Wayland G. Gilliam of Houston, Tex., and her ailing 5-year-old son, Gaylord. Shown at Washington, they're en route to Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, where the child will be treated for a heart ailment causing "blue baby" condition. Baby's dad is a veteran.

Jail Home

When Charles Stanek, ex-serviceman, his wife, Anna, and their two children, Charles, Jr., 1, and Anne, 3 (sleeping), were evicted from their apartment in Madison, N. J., they "lived" for a week in a railroad station in Newark. Then police stepped in . . . and offered the family a cell (here) in Madison. Stanek has been unemployed since before Christmas.

Wilson Junior High Sacked by Vandals

Several thousand dollars damage was caused by vandals who broke into the Woodrow Wilson Junior High School, Croftland ave., Dorchester, last night and wrecked the headmaster's office and several rooms.

The vandals entered through a first floor window and in the lunch room threw ice cream, flour, eggs, sugar and other food stuffs around. Equipment was wrecked. The damage was so extensive it was decided to send the pupils home at noon.

In the office of Headmaster William Mack, ink was splattered on the walls and a picture of a former headmaster, Theodore Lynch, was used as a target by the vandals who sprayed it with fire extinguishers. Several of the school rooms were also sprayed and desks were tipped over.

Rosenman to Quit As Truman Counsel

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—The retirement of Judge Samuel I. Rosenman as special counsel to the President, effective Feb. 1, was announced today.

The President told his news conference Judge Rosenman would return to private life in New York city but had agreed "to come to Washington from time to time, without compensation, to continue to render whatever assistance and advice to me he can."

Two Young Girls Hunted by Police

Two teen-aged girls described by their mothers as "just crazy about cowboy music," were sought in Boston today when Somerville and Cambridge police asked theaters here be checked in hopes of finding the pair.

Dorothy McGinnis, 13, Chester st., Somerville, and Marie McLaughlin, 15, Cambridge, vanished about 3 p. m. Tuesday and their parents think they may be looking for orchestras featuring cowboy music.

The Somerville girl is 5 feet, seven inches, 138 pounds, and her friend is 5 feet, four inches, 120 pounds. Both were dressed in style of most bobby-sockers, according to their parents.

R.R. Saboteur Plot Stirs GIs in Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 24 (AP)—A mysterious warning German saboteurs planned to blow up two vital railroad bridges tangled Army transportation over a 100-mile route between Frankfurt and Stuttgart over the weekend.

Army authorities refused to say whether there was actual sabotage on the line linking the north and south parts of the American occupation zone.

Harrington Seeks To Balance Pics

Concluding a short road trip that saw the Olympics tie Washington, 5-5, and lose, 7-2 to Baltimore, the locals will attempt to increase their Eastern League lead at the Depot rink when they engage the Baltimore Clippers on Saturday and Sunday evenings.

Still trying to balance his team, Hago Harrington will continue to experiment with his third line. This weekend Joe Schmidt will return to action after a prolonged lay-off. He will team with Fishy Dumond and Allan Stanley. Stanley himself has been laid up for the past four contests.

With Marquess and Babando both missing from the first line, Harrington will depend on the Barry-Ronty-Lund trio to carry the load against the Clippers.

Currivan Speaks At Scituate 'Night'

Don Currivan, Boston College and pro all-star end, heads a group of sports notables appearing tonight at the Scituate Women's Club where the St. Mary's Holy Name Society will stage a gala sports night. Sports movies round out the sparkling program.
